NOTE PROMISING TO RETURN LOST CHILD REVEALED AS HOAX

Horst Family Given False Hopes For Re- turn Of Child

ORRVILLE, O., Dec. 13.—In a room bedecked with last year's Christmas tree and the toys of a child, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horst waited vainly all night long for the return of their son, four-year-old Melvin Horst, who mysteriously disappeared from the streets here two nights after Christmas, last year.

The little boy's return had been promised in an unsigned note to the editor of a local newspaper. The note demanded $100 and freedom from arrest and this was agreed to by authorities.

However, the note had proved to be a hoax today, a cruel hoax which made the parents hope that their little dimpled-cheeked and blonde-haired boy would be with them again this yuletide and then dashed that hope on the rocks with the coming of daylight.

The parents of the child have kept the Christmas tree and toys which were Melvin's last year. The tree stands brown and barren. Elias and Arthur Arnold—63-year-old father and 18-year-old son—recently stood trial for a second time on child-stealing charges in connection with the lad's disappearance, but they were acquitted. Melvin vanished from the streets here on the night of December 27, last year. He has not been seen nor heard from since. The case has remained an enigma, unavenged and unsolved by justice.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 13.—Roy Horst, uncle of Melvin Horst, the boy who has been missing from his home in Orrville for nearly a year, returned to Wooster early today after failing to identify a child at the detention home here as Melvin.

A telephone message to Horst from an attendant at the detention home stated that a boy, picked up with a man who said he was the father, in a downtown department store yesterday, was believed to be Melvin.

Horst asserted he was positive the boy here was not his missing nephew, although he bore a close resemblance to Melvin.

Wayne, W. Va., Dec. 13.—Chancellor Ferguson, 22, who is accused of slaying George Crockett, a hermit in the remote one-mile creek section of Wayne County, will be arraigned here this afternoon on a charge of murder, according to Prosecutor Jess Ham-mack.

Ferguson was caught after a four-day manhunt in the Wayne County hills. He has withstood fifteen hours of continuous questioning by police and maintains he is innocent.

Crockett was found slain in his isolated cottage Sunday. His body had been riddled with birdshot. He was reported to have kept large sums of money about his place.

STORE MANAGER IS BOUND AND ROBBED

DELAWARE, O., Dec. 13.—Earl Bowers, manager of a chain grocery store here, today was recounting his experiences at the hands of a woman bandit and her two male companions yesterday.

The woman entered the store and asked for a sack of apples. Bowers prepared the parcel for her and turned to find himself staring into the muzzle of a revolver. The woman was quickly reinforced by her two male companions.

They bound and gagged Bowers and then robbed the till of $64. Customers later released the grocery manager.

BOMB WRECKS HOME

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.—A bomb exploded early today ripped off the front porch of the home of Benjamin Cohen, supervisor and investigator of the Kosher Meat Department of Swift and Co.'s plant here. Racketeers in a Kosher meat war are believed responsible for the blast. Cohen told police that his life has been threatened on several occasions by enemies who demanded he raise the price of Kosher beef.

BANKER IS DEAD

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.—Funeral services for Ralph A. Harman, 72, retired Cleveland banker, who died here yesterday following an illness of several years, will be held tomorrow, according to completed arrangements announced today.

POSTPONE PROPOSED FLIGHT TO SOUTH AMERICA; START SUNDAY

SEVILLE, Dec. 13.—Due to prevailing weather conditions, Captain Leon Challe of France and Major Larre-Borges of Uruguay, who are planning a non-stop flight over Europe to South America, announced today they had postponed their departure until Sunday evening.

The fliers were entertained at luncheon by Seville authorities today.

Captain Challe, who established a former record for straight-line distance and Major Larre-Borges, hero of a south Atlantic flight, arrived here several weeks ago from Villacoublay Aerodrome, near Paris.

It is extremely doubtful, according to experts, whether a flight from Seville to Montevideo would set a new long distance record, which the airmen wish to do, so they may start from Istres, France.

By taking off from Istres, the Franco-Uruguayan team might nose through the record by a few miles.

They are flying a Breguet-Bidon biplane, powered with two 450 horsepower Loree motors.

MISSIONARIES ARE REPORTED MISSING
FOLLOWING MUTINY

CANTON, Dec. 13.—Having repulsed the rebels on three fronts, President Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist government today appeared to be on a firmer footing than at any time since the mutiny at Pukow about two weeks ago began the present widespread revolt in China.

While the fighting forces recuperated from their recent heavy encounters in the various battle zones, interest turned today to the fate of several American missionaries who have not been heard from for two weeks.

These missionaries, attached to the Lazarus Catholic Mission at Kanchowsin Kiangsi province, reported on Nov. 30 that Kanchow was threatened by communist forces, apparently meaning looting rebel bands. No word has been heard from them since. The headquarters of the Lazarus Mission is at Germantown, Pa.

The latest Nationalist victory reported here came from the Hankow district where Nationalists stopped the advance of General Tang Seng-Chi's troops in a clash east of Loyang.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Rebel forces in the Canton district continued to fall back Monday before the onslaughts of the Nationalist defenders of the city, according to dispatches from Hong Kong.

The rebel "Ironclads" were reported to have retreated to Fayuan, twenty-seven miles from Canton. Casualties on both sides since the beginning of the heavy fighting in the district Monday are now estimated at about 5,000.

ARREST FOUR WOMEN FOR SHOPLIFTING

DAYTON, O., Dec. 13.—"Just write down my pretty name and designate Washington, D. C., as our address as that is the one town we like best of all as it has such a pretty name," four fashionably dressed and comely women told the desk sergeant at local police headquarters where they are being held today on shop-lifting charges. They refused to divulge their real names.

Stolen merchandise which was valued at $500 was recovered by police from the quartet's large and expensive automobile.

Their arrest occurred after detectives watched them take articles from the counters of several downtown stores, pass out of the stores and place the goods in their automobile.

It is alleged by local police that the women are notorious shop-lifters.

HAYS AND MILLIKEN
OFF CHURCH BOARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, and Carl E. Milliken, general secretary of that organization, today no longer were directors of the Church and Drama Association, of which the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman is president.

They were removed according to George Reid Andrews, executive secretary of the organization, because the board of directors "deemed it not wise to have representatives of the motion picture industry on the board."

QUAKE IS FELT

CATANIA, Sicily, Dec. 13.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here at 5:48 a. m. today.

The quake followed eruptions of smoke and cinders from the crater of the famous volcano, Mt. Etna, near here, which were described yesterday as internal disturbances.

PRISON OFFICIALS CONTINUE SEARCH FOR MISSING GUNS

Close Confinement En- forced At Auburn After Riots

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 13.—With "iron-handed" firmness, Auburn prison officials continued their search today for eight pistols which, it is believed, convict survivors of the violent jailbreak attempt that took nine lives Wednesday, hid away for future use.

Four pistols were found in the prison, two during the day yesterday and two last night, after prison guards, aided by troopers scoured many out of the way crevices inside the prison. Prison authorities are certain that twelve pistols were used by ringleaders of the convict mutiny in their daring but vain struggle for freedom.

Meanwhile punitive close confinement is rigidly enforced. All meals are being served the convicts in their cells. No exercise periods are granted. These rules will be kept in effect until the missing pistols are found.

Seven convict survivors of the sanguinary battle for freedom are facing first-degree murder indictments for the killing of George A. Durnford, principal keeper of the prison who was slain right at the outset of the outbreak.

Two investigations into the cause of the outbreak, the second to occur here within six months, are in progress. The results of the investigation will be used as evidence in punishing surviving leaders of the jailbreak.

One investigation is being conducted by the department of correction. The other is being made by District Attorney Ben Kenyon of Cayuga County, who expects to ask the grand jury for murder indictments against those responsible for Durnford's death when the jury meets January 6.

Sergeant George H. Sullivan, acting warden of the prison continues in charge. Warden Edgar S. Jennings, who was captured by the convicts and held hostage before being rescued by state troopers, has returned to his quarters in the prison but is still feeling the effects of a gas he inhaled and a blow he received in the struggle which resulted in his rescue.

Sullivan is determined to make the convicts regret the killing of Durnford whom he termed the bravest, squarest man in the state. He has asserted that they need expect no leniency while he is in charge.

Funeral services for Durnford will be held Saturday afternoon. He was captain of the headquarters. He will receive military honors as a company of the 108th regiment, N. Y. National Guard and was a World War veteran. His wife and two children survive him.

REPORT PROFESSOR
ISOLATES ELUSIVE
GERM OF INFLUENZA

Young Bacteriologist Predicts Vaccine For Disease

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Science today envisioned a cure for the ravages of the dreaded influenza germ with the announcement by Dr. Isidore S. Falk, 30-year-old professor of bacteriology at the University of Chicago, that he has succeeded in discovering and isolating the hitherto elusive bacteria.

Dr. Falk quietly made the announcement in his laboratory last night before a group of fifty students. His momentous discovery climaxes a six year period of research in general experiments for the isolation of the germ.

Making no bold predictions, Dr. Falk stated that his successful research now brings the "hopeful prospect that an antitoxin for influenza" will not be possible.

"I hope that a vaccine prepared from dead microbes of the influenza germ can be absorbed through the mucous membrane of the nose and throat and in this manner effect a cure," he explained.

Unknown until now by medical science, the influenza germ which has taken its toll in thousands of lives is of the pleomorphic streptococcus type, according to Dr. Falk.

"Its appearance," he said "is like a microscopic chain of unmatched beads which a child has strung together."

Dr. Falk used a group of Simian monkeys to aid in the "mobilization" campaign which he and his assistants began one year ago when the influenza epidemic was at its height.

Dr. Falk is an alumnus of Yale University.

REORGANIZATION OF PRISON SYSTEM IS BEFORE CONGRESS

President's Plan Is Intro- duced To Both Houses

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The Hoover administration's plan for a sweeping reorganization of the federal prison system was laid before both houses of congress today with pledges of prompt consideration.

Sen. Norris (R) of Nebraska and Rep. Graham (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate and Attorney-General Mitchell is expected to take the lead in the movement for enactment of five separate measures, aided by Sanford Bates, who was chosen superintendent of prisons to effect a reorganization.

The program is designed to end congestion in prisons, condemned by a special house investigating committee; provided employment, re-vamp the parole system and broaden the power of the department of justice to effect emergency changes.

Although the administration's reorganization plan has been in the making for a long time, the riot of last summer at Leavenworth and at state prisons have added to the determination of the justice department to obtain changes in the law.

The program includes: Building of three new prisons; one west of the Mississippi River, two east of it.

Creation of a single board of parole to replace present system of a board for each institution composed of officers with other duties.

JINX DOGS FOOTSTEPS

Friday, The 13th., Brings Bad News To Prisoner Who Expected Freedom.

ELYRIA, O., Dec. 13.—Friday the 13th is exactly what witchcraft says it is to Mike Malone, many weeks an inmate of the county jail here.

Malone, who has been waiting for his trial on charges of pointing firearms, had visions of Christmas freedom when it was arranged yesterday to liberate him on the firearm charge and release him on his own recognizance.

Malone left the courtroom with a dancing step toward the jail to get his things. Meanwhile, the jailer looked up Malone's record and found that he was not only waiting trial for pointing firearms but was also serving out a liquor fine on which $25 was due.

Unable to pay the $25 fine, Malone was returned to his cell where he sits today with a very sad expression.

OSHING, N. Y., Dec. 13.—Here's one man more than glad of braving Friday the 13th with all its imaginary witcheries.

Fifty minutes before he was to have paid with his life in the electric chair for the murder of Mrs. Emilie Harrington in a New York apartment two years ago, Frederick W. Edel, was granted a reprieve by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, last night.

New evidence brought to the governor's attention at a last-minute interview with Edel's counsel was responsible for the stay of execution.

"Thank God," said Edel in his death cell, when notified of the governor's action. "I'm tickled stiff. The governor did the right thing."

MAYOR BABB CLAIMS XENIA ENTITLED TO LOWER LIGHT RATES

Commission Holds U p Renewal Of Street Lamp Ordinance

That Xenia is entitled to at least a 20 per cent rate reduction of its present street lighting contract with the Dayton Power and Light Co., which expires December 31, is the conclusion reached by Karl R. Babb, mayor of the city and member of the City Commission.

Data in support of his contention was introduced by Commissioner Babb at the commission meeting Thursday night when an ordinance offered by the Dayton company, providing for a one-year renewal of the existing ten-year street lighting contract with the city came up for its second reading.

The Dayton firm proposed to charge the same rate schedule for 1930 under which the city during the current year paid $8,950 on the basis of $30 a year for each of ninety-six 100 candle power lamps; $42.50 for each of eighty-four 250 candle power lamps; $52.50 for each of thirty-four 400 candle power lamps, and $60 for each of eleven 600 candle power lamps.

Commissioner Babb said he had made an exhaustive inquiry into the subject and has investigated street lighting rates recently placed in effect for other cities approximately the same size as Xenia. He asserted that in his opinion Xenia's present rates are at least 20 per cent and possibly 25 per cent excessive, that a saving of nearly $2,000 a year should be realized and that the city would be perfectly justified in fighting for rates that would compare favorably with prices charged for furnishing current for street lighting in other Ohio cities of corresponding size.

When negotiations were first opened by the Dayton company with a prospective new street lighting contract as their basis, the company sought a ten-year renewal of its contract with no reduction in rates. This proposition left the commission cold. A five-year renewal was then suggested and this offer was also turned down flatly by the commission, which notified the company it would favorably consider a renewal for no longer period than one year.

In view of the fact there is considerable agitation for a municipal-owned lighting plan for Xenia, it is the commission's attitude that all of Xenia's present relations with the Dayton company should expire at the same time at the end of 1930.

A twenty-five year franchise for furnishing current in the Xenia territory, originally granted to the Citizens Light and Power Co., which was subsequently absorbed by the Dayton Power and Light Co., expires in 1930. About a year and a half ago the company was also granted an extension of its contract for domestic and commercial lighting when it voluntarily offered slightly reduced rates and this contract expires in December, 1930. Commission desires to have the city's street lighting contract expires at about the same time.

The point is also made that it

Perhaps the most interesting thing the little girl, who deserves such a great big hand, has done in her eventful career, is to have directed the Teatro Empire orchestra in South America at the age of 16. Imagine her directing a large group of musicians in a theater with pig tails down her back. Afterward she toured Europe as the leader of a girls' orchestra.

Miss Dorothy Bottorff, 20 Trumbull St., who has been confined to her home the last two weeks because of illness, is improving nicely.

Due to large crowds attending the indoor, carnival and bazaar at St. Paul's Church at Yellow Springs, the affair will be continued through Saturday night.

Mr. Charles C. McFarland of Purdom and McFarland, who has been a patient at McClellan Hospital for several weeks following an automobile accident on the Jamestown Pike, was removed to the home of his sister, Mrs. Louis Williams, S. College St., Yellow Springs, Tuesday.

Mrs. Raymond Tobias, and infant son, were removed to their home near Xenia, Friday from McClellan Hospital.

GIVEN JUDGMENT

Huston Davidson was awarded $2,500 damages against F. W. McElwain, Jamestown, under a judgment given Thursday by Judge Robert P. Duncan, Columbus, based on an auto collision July 5, 1928 between the autos of McElwain and Davidson on S. High St., one mile north of the Hartman farm, at Columbus. Davidson brought suit for $2,852.50 damages. McElwain did not appear in court to contest the action.

SANTA GETS HOT RECEPTION

Boisterous Youngsters Give Saint Nick Vigorous Welcome In Xenia Thursday

Mr. Santa Claus, a generous-hearted gentleman who has developed considerable popularity annually at this season of the year, was recovering Friday from battle scars sustained when he was almost mobbed by more than 500 Xenia youngsters here Thursday night.

It was the general consensus Friday that if Mr. Claus experiences as much trouble in distributing his wares Christmas eve as he did disposing of bags of goodies on his visit here Thursday evening that the old gentleman, who is advancing in years, may not be able to make his usual rounds next year.

Mr. Claus was here Thursday evening at the special invitation of the Xenia Retail Merchants Association, taking time from his busy work bench at the North Pole, to pay a brief visit to Greene County youngsters. All boys and girls were invited to visit with him on the streets and to receive a gift from his generous pack.

For some unknown reason, the youngsters obtained the impression that Saint Nick was going to make the Jobe Bros. department store his headquarters and youngsters swarmed around the entrance to the store in such numbers that police had to be summoned to restore order. Store employees were unable to reach the entrance because of the crowd, the sidewalk was blocked completely and sidewalk traffic suspended. Although police fought their way through the youthful mob to per-

Santa backed into the entrance of the Commercial and Savings Bank while his aides fought off the youngsters and still later he dispensed the last of the candy from the steps of the entrance of the office of Dr. A. B. Kester. Even then Santa had to smuggle himself away to prevent further violence at the hands of his boisterous admirers, whose enthusiasm could neither be restrained by awe for Santa or by fear of the police. In spite of inclement weather, merchants were surprised at the large crowd on hand and sorry they did not equip Santa as a medieval knight in armor. Stores in the downtown section remained open until 10 o'clock as part of the reception for Santa and the new Christmas trees were lighted for the first time during the celebration.

It was a big evening—for Santa. STEAMER IN DISTRESS VIGO, Spain, Dec. 13.—Rescue

That's my experience with Konjola."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

PETER'S AFFIRMATION — Then said Jesus unto twelve, Will ye also go away? Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou art the Christ of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.— John 6:67, 68, 69.

COOLIDGE FOR THE SENATE

"Calvin Coolidge may go to the senate in 1930. Advice received here from an unimpeachable Washington source is to the effect that high officials close to the administration are trying to induce him to become a candidate.

"They are working in conjunction with prominent Massachusetts leaders and there is reason to believe that, despite all reports to the contrary, Mr. Coolidge might be willing to have his name used providing he could be sure that the field would be cleared for him."—The Boston Transcript.

The country needs in the senate today nothing so much as the hard commonsense and granitic firmness with which Mr. Coolidge held the nation true to its course, while he was in the White House. The senate lacks cohesion and a sense of responsibility to the country as a whole. A natural and inevitable consequence of the popular election of irresponsible candidates through direct primaries has been to sacrifice achievement to a malignant and fruitless indecision.

While Mr. Coolidge, with a single vote in a body of 96 members, would not enjoy the same opportunity to enforce his judgments as he did in the White House, a few men in the senate like Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Morrow would have a stabilizing effect on its deliberations. They would stand out like a rock in the sea of indecision into which the senate has sunk, affording a point about which the bits of patriotism and statesmanship now floating on that sea might crystallize. The dignity and experience of such men, if they did not shame the intellectual light-weights of the senate into emulation or silence, would at least provide such a striking contrast between mentalities that court the filth of primary campaigning and those that shun it that the country could not fail to note the difference.

The people need Mr. Coolidge in the senate; and if the field is not cleared of factional strife for his candidacy, if he declines to allow his name to be dragged through rough and tumble preliminaries, they will again be forcefully reminded of the price they are paying for the abandonment of the method of choosing senators that the framers of the constitution fitted into our finely balanced governmental mechanism, at the behest of those who regard the senate not as a vital part of that mechanism, but as a forum to the oratory and emoluments of which every Tom, Dick and Harry has an inalienable right to aspire.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

A Washington dispatch states that Congressman Grant M. Hudson, a member of the rivers and harbors committee of the house, will press for early action on the Snell bill, which provides for the United States co-operating with Canada in constructing the St. Lawrence seaway. The importance of this project to Michigan is so great that it is not only appropriate, but mandatory that the representatives of this state in congress shall give it their energetic and unremitting support.

As for Canada, which is as deeply concerned in connecting the Great Lakes with the Atlantic ocean via the St. Lawrence as ourselves, we can only wait for time to prevail over political considerations, as Mr. Hoover reminded congress in his annual message. As for ourselves, we do not have to wait in order to make a legislative gesture that will place our share of the St. Lawrence project on record as a national enterprise to be undertaken as soon as Canada is ready to do its share.

The sponsor of the Snell bill is a New Yorker. The significance of this fact is that the opposition to the St. Lawrence route in New York state is not unanimous, articulate as it becomes at times under the leadership of Congressman Dempsey. The course of wisdom for those states in which opinion favorable to the St. Lawrence route virtually is unanimous would seem to be to meet this divided opposition with an united and aggressive front at this time and from now on until the first Atlantic liner drops anchor in the Great Lakes.

STEALING RIDES

At this season of the year particularly, when the pavements may become slippery at any time and it is difficult to hold motor vehicles to their course or to stop them abruptly, stealing rides on the backs of busses or private cars is dangerous economy. Yet in some cities every day boys are seen indulging in it in our most congested streets, where a skidding car or one with defective brakes might easily crash into the vehicle on which they are riding and crush them to death. Children caught risking their lives in this way should be turned over the parental knee. Older boys should be made to feel the arm of the law, as a protection against the possible consequences of their foolhardiness, as well as to reduce the traffic hazards to which others are exposed by a practice that annoys and unmakes many drivers.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—"Zeke" Colman, famous stage director for Old Doc Ziegfeld, was at one period of his career an actor—and a good one. In the theater he is the strictest disciplinarian on Broadway. His manner is frozen, his face frigid. Outside the show-shop he is the most affable chap in New York. It must be that back of the proscenium he is acting a role, and acting it so well that he has the reputation of getting a lot of efficient work quickly and quietly done.

UNUSUAL ANNIVERSARY Evelyn Herbert, successful prima donna soprano of such musicals as "The New Moon" and "My Mary-lane"—and unique on Broadway as a prima donna in that she really knows music and reproduces it as something real and human—recently celebrated an unusual anniversary. It is one of which the public knows little or nothing about. Miss Herbert some time ago made her debut in principal roles with the Chicago Opera company. It was there that she created the famous lead of "Mina" in De Koven's one grand opera, "Rip Van Winkle."

After that she lost her voice. She came to New York and got a job in the Casino chorus. When her voice could no longer hold a chorus position she quit the stage and visited friends on the St. Lawrence river. One day the full realization burst upon her of just what a sorry trick fate had played, endowing her with all that talent and then depriving her of her voice; and in a frenzy she threw herself into the river. A gardener working on the estate near Clayton, the scene of her attempt at suicide, dragged her from the stream. Later she saw that she had been more than foolish. That fall she returned to New York. One afternoon she went into a little church and prayed that she'd get her voice back; and it was but a short time later that she recovered it completely and was offered a principal's role on Broadway. Now, at the pinnacle of success, she celebrates quietly, and in a manner unknown to anyone but herself, the annual recurrence of the date of her return from the St. Lawrence.

When making apple or berry pies scatter a tablespoon of minute tapioca over the top before putting on the upper crust. It keeps juice from running out and improves the flavor.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

AS TO ADVICE

Few of us are really capable of giving sound advice. Perhaps nobody is. We are able to give advice which appears sound but it may not fit the case at all. There is something in most of us which makes us want to influence others, to tell others how to live their lives, what to do, when to do it. As a matter of fact this is too much of an undertaking for anybody. We are prone to say, for example, when people face struggles and difficulties, that the discipline is good for them. As if we knew what is good for them! One reads from Justin McCarthy these lines: "Adversity is a medicine which people are rather fond of recommending indiscriminately as a panacea for their neighbors. Like other medicines, it only agrees with certain constitutions. There are nerves which it braces, and nerves which it utterly shatters."

CAUTION

Men in public life have sometimes made a lasting name for themselves and have achieved a certain greatness because they were always cautious. They accomplished few outstanding things but they made few mistakes. They thus achieved popularity and a place in the affections of the people. But the reality of great men of our country and all countries have not been the cautious ones. They have been men who made mistakes, men of adventure, men who took chances, men who were often wrong, but men who finally achieved. Caution is a useful quality. It is far from being a great one.

ARGUMENT

Gibbon, the historian, used to say: "I never make the mistake of arguing with people for whose opinions I have no respect." Argument is good mental exercise. It may convince no one but at least it keeps the mind in good practice. But Gibbon's plan is good. Why waste time arguing with anyone whose opinions you do not respect?

JOSTLING

Probably the man who finds life the most complicated is the one who clings to the idea that he must never give offense to anybody. He feels that peace is worth the price of convictions. He will differ with nobody for fear of seeming unpleasant. This is a good rule so long as it applies to trivial matters. There are so many things that are simply not worth bickering about, no matter what your opinion. On the other hand, a man who has no convictions about important matters is not really a man at all. Says the old Carlyle, who wasn't afraid of anybody or anybody's opinion: "No man lives without jostling and being jostled; in ways he has to elbow himself through the world, giving and receiving offense."

POLICY ON LOANS DESCRIBED AS HELP TO GRAIN MARKETING

By SAMUEL R. McKELVIE Member Federal Farm Board (Samuel Roy McKelvie was born at Fairfield, Neb., April 15, 1891. He attended the University of Nebraska. From 1902 to 1905 he was with the Bee Publishing company at Omaha. He was editor of the Nebraska Farmer in 1905, later becoming principal owner and president. From 1911 to 1913 he was a member of the Nebraska board of representatives. The next two years he was lieutenant governor of Nebraska. He was governor to his state from 1919 to 1923. Last spring he was appointed to the Federal Farm board by President Hoover. He is a Republican.)

General wheat loan policies of the Federal Farm board are stabilizing the market, and can be credited with preventing a crash in grains comparable to the recent break in stocks.

Wheat and other grain co-operatives are coming into the Farmers National Grain corporation in groups, and as a result increased supplemental loans to co-operatives are being made possible, and a reassuring influence is being felt.

Co-operatives will ultimately control grain, as the board will continue making loans enabling them to feed grain into the market according to the demand for it.

The board formulated this policy because it was seen that unless immediate stabilization activities were commenced the grain market would suffer from the declines in stocks threatening at the time.

During the acute situation in wheat from July to October there was a greater spread between cash and futures prices and future prices than has ever before been recorded, so that the grain trade made more money than it ever had before.

As yet all grain co-operatives are not qualified to secure loans from the board, since in order to do so a co-operative must comply with the Copper-Voldstad act.

A regional organization for the hard spring wheat area, including Minnesota, the two Dakotas, and Montana is being set up similar to the North Pacific Grain Growers Co-operative association recently organized from the ground up with the assistance of the board.

The difference in the area including Minnesota, the two Dakotas, and Montana, is that these states are already well organized into growers' co-operative interests in the Pacific northwest there are no organizations forming a

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

NO WOMAN LOOKS CHIC UNLESS NEAT

The really smart, well-dressed woman is always neat, because she pays the greatest attention to the small details, which attended to make a perfect finish to even the simplest and most unpretentious toilet.

If you want to be really neat, you must never think that certain omissions, and, yes, commissions as well, do not matter. The expression "doesn't matter" should have no place whatever in the well-dressed woman's vocabulary.

Beginning with our extremities, they are so important in these days because they are conspicuous, whether one is wearing a short sports suit, or the new attractive robe de style, which is now almost the universal mode of wear for the evening.

Our grandmothers firmly believed in the old maxim that "a lady is known by her shoes and her gloves," and I wish the modern woman would remember it occasionally because I believe it to be a useful one. Shoes should follow the correct line of the wearer's foot. If you have a long, thin foot, don't try to wear short, vamped, stumpy shoes just because they happen to be fashionable at the moment.

Shoes should be taken great care of. Always keep a supply of trees, and use them. Clean your shoes with the right shade of cleaning material, and let them pay an occasional visit to the repairers to be overhauled. If you do all this, then you won't have much cause to complain of the length of your shoe bill.

And your stockings are just as important. They must be clean, no visible darns, and most certainly no holes at all. Pay attention to the fit when you are buying and when wearing them. Keep them taut. A constricted stocking is a tragic looking sight.

The modern woman has no excuse for untidy or dirty gloves. There are such varieties of washable ones to be bought, and gloves are no longer worn tight-fitting, so that there is no discomfort in a neatly gloved hand. Gloves should tone with shoes and stockings. Gloves are very important indeed, because a well gloved hand out of doors is generally a pretty hand indoors.

Other essentials to neatness are, well brushed clothes, neat hair, and fresh collars, cuffs, and fronts. Anything untidy or soiled is ruinous to one's general appearance. Naturally you will pay attention to your skin, using a good lotion or cream to give it a nice texture, and of course you will use your powder, rouge and lipstick, the correct way, never using too much, but just enough to bring out the best in your personality.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Japanese delegation will be the most peaceful influence at the naval limitation conference in London next month.

All the diplomats and technical experts in Washington agree on that.

Perish the idea that the Americans and British will prove to be suspicious of one another. Still, it will be hard for them to avoid pretty frequent comparisons between their respective war fleets.

Italy is almost openly jealous of France, and, to some extent, vice versa.

The tendency on the part of these four powers' representatives will be to fix a limit that at least three of their nations will have to build up to.

Britain, being already the strongest of the four (although on a nominal parity with America) may be satisfied with her present status.

However, even that is not certain. If a race develops between the French and Italians, John Bull will have to amplify his calculations accordingly. The London admiralty never will allow itself to be outclassed in the Mediterranean.

Should England's hand be forced by Paris' fears and Rome's ambitions, Uncle Sam's hand will be forced, in turn, by British necessities.

nuclear round which to create the regional co-operative.

The loans being made on grain by the board are strictly supplementary to the credit that the co-operatives are able to secure from other sources in order to bring the total amount of credit available to co-operatives up to the schedules established by the board.

From the point of view of the board, its action is not looked upon as an inflating influence or one capable of establishing a detrimental monopoly, because the board formulated its plan after a careful consideration of all the economic factors involved in the situation.

ties. The freedom of the seas issue may crop up at any minute as a disturbing equation. Washington diplomacy is doing its best to soft pedal it, but it will not be able to continue doing so unless the proceedings progress very harmoniously. The first suggestion of a marked increase in activity by British navy yards will start a hubbub about it.

The American, English, French and Italian conferees, then, will be doing well if they arrive at an understanding against any considerable expansion of their various sea establishments.

Control of the Sea of Japan need worry the mikado about as much as Uncle Sam needs to worry about the safety of Great Lakes shipping.

When he gets ready to take Manchuria, he will take it.

Eventually he will. When he does, he will be as independent of the rest of the world as this country. But this country is not altogether independent in that respect. It could live, even if bottled up at home, but it would be disagreeable.

It is true that her admirals admit intending to ask for a 10-10-7 naval basis instead of the existing 5-5-3 ratio; that is to say, an index figure of seven for the mikado versus ten for Great Britain and the United States, or a slightly larger proportion than was assigned at Nippon's 1921-22 conference in Washington.

Nevertheless, Japan is favorable to all-round reduction; not mere limitation. She does not care if it goes far enough to make long range warfare impossible.

Of course, it would be most ungracious to imply that anything but unadulterated peace is what the Japanese are thinking about in urging this general maritime disarmament.

Just the same, anyone who will take a look at a map of the Asiatic coast, between the thirtieth and fiftieth parallels north latitude, cannot help being struck by another explanation which might weight with them, supposing them to be actuated by motives other than those of the highest altruism.

Without a navy, and a whale of a big one, how could anyone except the Japanese, the Chinese and the Russians, get into Manchuria?—this investigator would be bound to ask himself.

We have heard a good deal about Manchuria lately—and the trouble between Russia and China concerning it—and of their obvious unwillingness to get into a real war concerning it, lest Japan jump into the rumpus and take it away from both of them.

No military man on earth doubts that the Japanese could do it from either or both of them, put together.

They licked the Russians when they were stronger than they are now and Japan was not so strong. They licked the Chinese without half trying when the Chinese were at least as strong as they are today and not quarreling among themselves, either.

Furthermore, no one questions that the mikado wants Manchuria; also Mongolia, to the west of it—a total area a quarter as big as the United States and a large part of it mighty valuable country in spite of the Gobi desert.

But, obviously, at the present writing, there would be considerable prospects of objections to the grab from several occidental powers.

Even now the sea of Japan is an almost impossible body of water for any but Japanese shipping to get into against Japanese opposition. On one side of it is the Asiatic mainland; on the other the Japanese archipelago, with nothing but a few narrow, tortuous straits connecting it with the open ocean—straits that are difficult to navigate at the best of times, to say nothing of a lot of submarines to dodge and mines to avoid.

Still, the open ocean could be made unpleasant for Nippon's merchant vessels—if foreign war craft were on the lookout for them.

On the outer side of the Sea of Japan is the chain of Japanese islands—home. On the inner side is Korea (now known as Chosen), as much Japan's as Porto Rico is America's.

A navy necessary to transport troops across?

Why, there is a regular ferry-boat service—as dependable as from Manhattan island to Jersey City—and as safe, too, once the straits are closed with a few tons of high explosives.

Control of the Sea of Japan need worry the mikado about as much as Uncle Sam needs to worry about the safety of Great Lakes shipping.

When he gets ready to take Manchuria, he will take it.

Eventually he will. When he does, he will be as independent of the rest of the world as this country. But this country is not altogether independent in that respect. It could live, even if bottled up at home, but it would be disagreeable.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D. Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ACID STOMACH

"Dear Doctor: Many thanks for relieving me of acid stomach. Two doctors tinkered vainly, never asking me how much bread I consumed. Your column opened my eyes; I stopped eating bread, and lo! the acid vanished. When I say bread, I mean more than a half a loaf at a sitting. It was a real mania!" "MR. F."

I'm glad you had such success Mr. F. Many others could profit by your example. But you certainly ate more than your share of bread! No wonder you had acid stomach.

The cereal products are delicious and wholesome foods, but when used excessively they unbalance the diet and usually cause excess weight; they give an acid ash, and so tend to give a dietary acidosis and hyper-acidity, as you have demonstrated. But there is no reason why you shouldn't have some bread or other starchy foods, Mr. F. Simply don't make you-know-what of yourself!

We have an article on Balanced Diet which is proving very helpful. See column rules for obtaining this.

"Dear Doctor: I have the terrible habit of walking and also talking, in my sleep. Sometimes I am afraid to go to bed at night for fear I will do something to harm myself. Could you tell me what the cause might be, and what to do to remedy it? I've wondered if it could be my nerves." "MISS C."

Yes, it might be due to your nerves, Miss C., and nerves can be upset by prolonged wrong diet and other hygienic slip-ups, such as over-emotionalism, lack of rest and sleep, etc. But I would have a thorough physical check-up, if I were you, to rule out any organic disturbance, and then, if necessary, visit a qualified psychiatrist to see if there are not some psychic injuries that are resting in your subconscious mind and disturbing you. Meanwhile, it would be a good idea to fasten yourself in some way, perhaps to the mattress, either by a long strip of cloth, or by your night-gown, so that when you do attempt to get up in your sleep, you will be awakened.

"Dear Doctor: How can I learn practical nursing? I am a widow, 50 years old, and would like to take up nursing now." "MRS. B."

I know of no courses that are given in practical nursing, Mrs. B. Practical nurses are usually those who have obtained their experience in nursing their own friends and relatives, with, perhaps, some knowledge gained from association in cases with the trained nurses. You might inquire at any hospital in your city; perhaps they can give you some information.

Goshen, N. Y., Reader: Do you know what you did? (Rhetorical question.) You sent in a list of articles you wanted, marked off on the newspaper lists that I gave a short time ago, and enclosed the necessary coin (38 cents), but you did not enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope nor give your name and address in any way. Write it again, please, referring to this notice and what you did, correct your mistake, and the articles will be sent you.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. If she considers your questions of general interest, they will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each; for the pamphlets on "Reducing and Gaining Weight," "The Kidney and Its Excretions," and "The Hygiene of Women," 10 cents in coin (for each), fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. (These charges are to cover the cost of printing and handling.) Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"TEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I'm just 16, and going steady, but neither he nor I are madly in love. So do you think it necessary to cut out all my other boy friends and not have impromptu dates with them? The dates are usually just car riding." "CURIOUS."

Perfectly all right, I should say, to have dates with other boys and let the boy friend have them with other girls. Much better not to get too serious, at your ages.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 28 years old. Have been married about 11 months and think the world of my wife and she seems to love me. We have had a few little quarrels. She went home and said she was no coming back to me. What shall I do? I can't give her up without a brokenheart."

"LONESOME HUSBY." Write or go to her and ask her to tell you in what way you have failed her. Then try to correct it. She may find, after a short separation, that she needs you as much as you need her.

BABS: You can't do much to attract the boy's attention except by treating him in a very friendly way. Babs. Could you gradually start going with others, as the boy friend seems to bore you? If he asks you why, frankly tell him that you don't care to go with just one for a time, and ask him to allow you the privilege of going with others, suggesting that he do likewise.

It may be that your friend, whom you like, sees that you are not going "steady" with his friend, he will ask you for a date.

MARY LOU: Don't marry any young man that you don't love. You are young, so just wait a while and I am sure you will meet the right one. Sorry, but I cannot give you the address you ask for.

"Children don't appreciate their parents nowadays," is the cry. Maybe not. Many of them don't. But do parents appreciate their children?

Some do, to be sure. But others expect a great deal more of their youngsters than was expected of them when they were young. Children have advantages in these modern times that their parents did not have, but they also have more interests than we did, and they have to know many more things.

A little girl writes that she tries to help her mother with the housework, and in the summer vacation she did it all. Since school started, however, her mother does not realize that she hasn't as much time as she did during the summer.

And, another thing, mother doesn't like any of her friends or her brother's friends, and she is forced to meet the boy friend around the corner. He has talked to her father away.

—the boy friend has—but to no do if you were me," she begs. She "Please tell me what you would sign herself, "Blue."

Well, dear, try to look at the housework from your mother's point of view. I mean, you may think that you are expected to do it all, but maybe you are not doing as much as you think. I can remember when I had the same feeling you have and as a matter of fact, I was not doing as much as I thought I was.

There is usually a time in every young person's life when they think they are not appreciated by their parents, and their parents, being at the nervous age, think they, too, are abused by their youngsters. Not expecting too much of one another helps through this trying time, and a lot of love and thoughtfulness helps a lot, too.

As to the boy friend, I hope your mother will gradually change her attitude toward your friends and your brother's. It may be just a passing mood with her because she doesn't feel herself, for some reason or other.

VALERIE: There would be no harm in sending the boy a Christmas card, but there is no occasion for it, as you have not seen him since the party. Do as you like about it.

THE ONE MINUTE PULPIT Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise: Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler.

Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest.—Proverbs, vi, 6-8.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

COUSIN SEXTON BEETLE FLIES UPON THE SCENE

Peter and Biffer started off on another lap of their adventure. They hadn't gone far before they heard a queer humming sound, faint at first, but steadily growing louder.

"What can that be?" wondered Peter, looking about.

"Sounds like Friend Bumble Bee," answered Biffer. "Come to think of it, I don't believe it is, though. Friend Bumble Bee is not quite so noisy. My neck is so stiff I can't look over my shoulder. Turn around my boy and make sure no one is following us."

Peter did as he wastold. No one was on their trail. He made sure of that, then above their heads he noticed a dark form, flying.

"Biffer, look up, is that rider of the air our friend or foe?" Biffer tilted back his head and squinted at the sky and Peter was relieved to hear the little Gun-Beetle hail the flier.

"Hello, Cousin Sexton," shrilled Biffer and waved a claw in greeting. "Were you going somewhere? We are on our way to take dinner with you."

The flier balanced himself in mid-air, his wings moving slowly. "What did you say, youngster?" called he. "I can't hear you very well, the wind is too strong. Did my ears deceive me or did you say you were coming to my house to dinner?"

"Yes!" shrilled Biffer. "Goodness gracious me! I can scarcely believe it!" the flier surprised, that much was certain. "I can't remember when a Gun-Beetle has dined with his Cousin Sexton. How did it ever happen? I came down to earth and heard about it!"

Sexton Beetle spread wide his wings and dropped to the ground, alighting between Peter and Biffer.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED by Phil

Friday the 13th is viewed with alarm by a number of Greene County high school basketball teams that have court games scheduled for that night.

This date is sure to be unfortunate for four of the following eight teams: Waynesville plays Xenia Central at the local gym; Caesar Creek plays at Bowersville; Plattsburg appears at Jamestown and Bath Twp. visits Bellbrook.

Smoky City experts, prompted by the enviable record of Pittsburgh's 1929 football eleven, are comparing its strength with that of the famed Panther machine of 1916. In that year Pop Warner was coaching at Pittsburgh while Dr. Jock Sutherland, the present head coach, was holding down a guard position.

In the last fourteen years Pitt has developed quite a few outstanding teams but this year's aggregation has the best season's record of any Panther outfit since Warner was at the helm.

Turning back the pages of time it is recalled that on the 1916 array were Bob Peck, twice All-American center, Thornhill, Sles and Pat Herron, a really great end. The backfield was composed of Morrow, Hastings, Dehart and McLaren. After graduation seven of the regulars obtained coaching jobs.

Jimmy Dehart is head coach at Duke University, newest member of the Southern Conference, while Peck is still athletic director at Culver Military Academy. "Red" Carlson, 1916 end, turned his efforts to another sport and is credited with building up Pitt's best basketball teams, developing an All-American forward in Charley Hyatt.

His old teammate, Dr. Sutherland, has been moulding gridiron stars including Getto, Chase and Welch of previous All-American ranking, and such All-American eligibles this season as Donchess and Uansa, Montgomery and Peterson.

Fred Pierson, senior tackle on Wilmington College's 1929 football team, was honored the other night at a dinner given by the active Varsity "W" men at the General Denoyer Hotel when he was voted "most valuable player" on the squad for the recent season.

The football players cast two ballots in making the selection, the first ballot nominating four players, including Paul "Pop" Boxwell, senior Xenia fullback. Only the names of Pierson and Boxwell appeared on the second and final ballot and Boxie lost out by only one vote. If he had voted for himself he could have won. He voted for Pierson, however.

The honorary title could have deservedly been awarded to either player as each may have played two years as a regular. Boxie's play during the last season was outstanding, particularly on defense, while his line plunging was great.

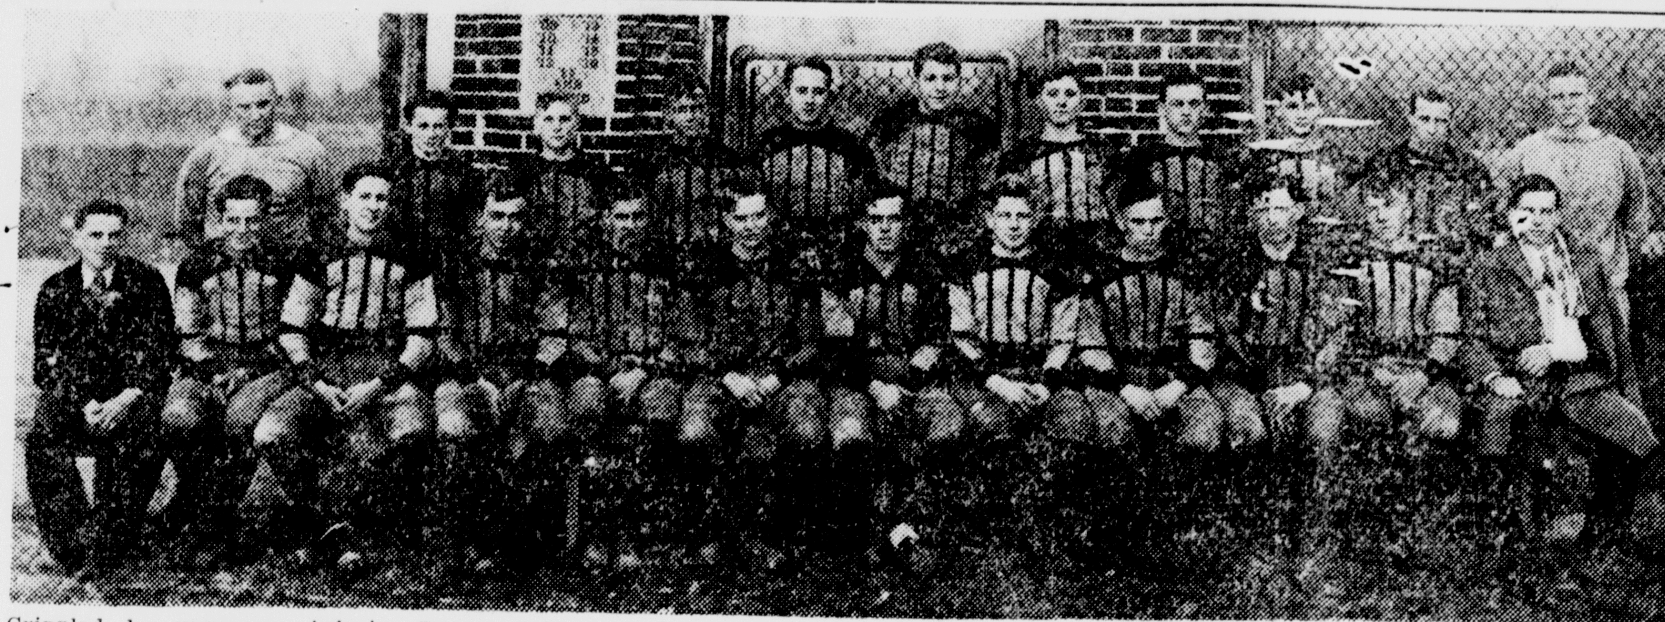

His name will go down in Wilmington College football history as a star of the first magnitude.

It is a comparatively rare thing for a captain to succeed himself in that capacity on a Wittenberg College football team but campus sentiment is said to be overwhelmingly in favor of re-electing "Big Bill" Edwards, of Massillon, regarded by many experts as the best college center developed in this section in many years, captain of the "Fighting Lutherans" again for next season. He was captain during the 1929 season and will be a senior next year.

In basketball Gerald Armstrong, left-handed forward hailing from Greenfield, was captain in 1926 and in 1927 at Wittenberg. In football a captain once succeeded himself. He was J. H. Keyser, field goal kicker of 1898 and 1899. He is the father of Joe Keyser, basketball captain of 1929 for the Lutherans.

Joe is now coaching at Franklin, O., and the earlier Joe Keyser is at Richmond, Ind. After coaching in Akron for two years, Armstrong is back as the coach at his own high school, McClain High of Greenfield.

CRIPPLED CENTRAL HIGH TEAM SURVIVED BAD SEASON

Crippled by numerous injuries and lacking experienced material, Xenia Central High School's 1929 football machine, shown above, won only one game and lost eight during the recent season. The Bucs had only two letter men available at the start of the season. However, much promising material was uncovered for next year.

MAJOR LEAGUE MEETING FAILS TO BRING MANY DEVELOPMENTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Their annual pow-wow over owners and representatives of the two major league baseball clubs, today were homeward bound, no slates, perhaps, but certainly no wiser.

The joint session of the two leagues under the watchful eye of Commissioner Landis which was expected to result in the settling of several important matters, produced little.

The developments were: Approval of a motion made by Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees to increase the number of optional players from eight to fifteen and the right to send purchase players out for three years instead of two.

Further discussion of the farm system and the appointment of a committee of four to go over major and minor league matters for the purpose of making a report and appropriation of a total of $65,000 to three enterprises.

The league owners also adopted two resolutions from the Baseball Writers' Association of America. One provided for the appointment of an official scorer in each city by the president of the league instead of by the individual clubs.

The other provided a committee to go over the scoring rules to make them uniform in each league. The Brooklyn situation remains the same.

From the fans' point of view the most important accomplishment of the sessions was the agreement by both leagues to shorten the playing season.

Bowling Scores

The Lang Chevrolet Co. won two out of three games from the Benrus Watch quintet in a Recreation League bowling match while the league-leading Downtown Country Club made a clean sweep of the three-game series with the Flexmode Shoes in a City League match Thursday night. Cox had a series of 574 for Langs, Donkey topped the Benrus team with 558, Beard was best for the Flexmode Shoes with 546 and Eavey led the Downtowners with 516. Box scores: Lang Chevrolet Co.

ACCIDENT NUMBER

COLUMBUS, Dec. 13.—The Department of Industrial Relations has announced that its aim to reduce industrial accidents caused by faulty scaffolding, by one-half during the coming year, through a new program of investigation.

Four inspectors, authorized by the last legislature, will examine scaffolding, whenever erected, against faulty workmanship. Two of these, Frank Clyde, Cincinnati, and John D. Manoly, Barboursburg, were named about a month ago. The appointment of George D. Craft, Canton, as the third, has also been announced by Will T. Blake, director of the state department of Industrial Relations. The fourth will be announced later.

"Naming of four scaffold inspectors for the state is the result of the increasing number of accidents from that cause. During 1928, in the building erection industry alone, there were twenty-one fatalities, and 1,158 non-fatal injuries as the result of persons falling from scaffolds, with 158,172 days lost. There were twenty-one injuries from collapsing scaffolds and forty-nine persons injured from objects falling from scaffolds. This does not include the large number of accidents from the same cause in the other twenty-seven different industries of the state," Blake said.

TWO GIVEN FINES SEQUEL TO CRASH

Convicted of a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated, James Duckett, Dayton, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to serve thirty days in the County Jail and his driving rights were revoked for six months by Probate Judge S. C.

charge and fined $50 and costs. The pair was arrested by county authorities as an aftermath of an auto accident on the Dayton Pike near Grange Hill last Friday night. Their car is alleged to have collided with that of Russell Gilbert, W. Second St., Dayton, also occupied by Lester Sain, Dayton. No one was injured, however.

Duckett and Carder had entered not guilty pleas to the charges filed against them.

PAROLE PRISONER BECAUSE OF HEALTH

Hiram Brannum, 39, colored, 918 E. Main St., prisoner in the County Jail, has been paroled by County Commissioners and ordered committed to the hospital at the Dayton Military Home, where he will be treated for tuberculosis.

The parole was authorized when it was discovered he had contracted a contagious disease and his incarceration exposed other inmates to the same infection.

Under terms of the parole Brannum must remain at the Dayton hospital until legally discharged by physicians.

The negro was fined $200 and costs on a conviction for possession.

PROPERTY; OTHER LOCAL COURT NEWS

Two suits are on file in Common Pleas Court seeking to have set aside the sale of real estate situated in Beaver Creek Twp., involving property sold to John Cyphers February 14, 1919 after the taxes became delinquent. The amount of the delinquent tax was $3.90.

One action filed by Tillie Cyphers, who asserts she formerly owned the land, avers that the tax sale was not in conformity with the law because of alleged failure to describe the real estate definitely and because it was not advertised for sale.

The plaintiff asserts that she is willing to reimburse the defendant for the amount he paid and also interest in return for a transfer of the tax title and also claims that Cyphers had knowledge when he purchased the land of the source of the title and the defects of the sale.

The court is asked to determine the amount due the defendant. The plaintiff asks that Cyphers be required to make an accounting for rents and profits since he obtained title to the property ten years ago.

The same allegations and requests are contained in a separate petition filed by Myrtle M. Cyphers, Oma Laughman, Clarence Cyphers, Harry E. Harner, Edward Cyphers, Mary Carter, Emma Miller, Harry Cyphers, Pansie Cyphers, Aletha Threlkeld and Tillie Cyphers against John Cyphers and Pansie Cyphers, 18, a minor.

According to the petition, Jeremiah Cyphers died March 5, 1911 intestate, leaving the plaintiffs and John Cyphers as his heirs. It is set forth the decedent owned the real estate in Beaver Creek Twp., which was sold to John Cyphers eight years later.

Miller and Finney represent the plaintiffs in both suits.

DIVORCE WANTED

Charging that her husband left her last June 15 and that he was guilty of cruelty to her, Georgia Miller has brought suit for divorce from David Austen Miller in Common Pleas Court. They were married September 13, 1926. The couple has no children.

GIVEN DIVORCE

On grounds of extreme cruelty Gladys P. Hancock has been awarded a divorce from Kyle P. Hancock in Common Pleas Court. The plaintiff was awarded custody of their minor child, the husband reserving the right to visit the child at reasonable intervals. A written agreement was reached by the parties on the division of their property but the defendant was ordered to pay $5 a month toward the child's support and also doctor and hospital bills, if any should arise.

DEMPSEY RUSHED INTO TUNNEY BOUT

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.—Jack Dempsey, once the king of maulers, was rushed into his fight with Gene Tunney, because George F. Getz, Chicago, sponsor of the classic, was in a hurry to get to Africa on a hunting trip.

Getz revealed this here last night at a banquet of coal retailers. "Dempsey wanted the fight on the 29th of September, but I was leaving for Africa on the 25th," Getz explained. "So we compromised and had it on the 23rd. Jack wanted it as late in September as possible since his wife had been sick and he wasn't in real top shape."

For the first time in history King Spud has a queen. Miss Elsie Paddock, 18, was named Potato Queen of northern Michigan, at the annual potato show, held at Cadillac. Above, she is holding the loving cup awarded her and a peck of the potatoes that won the show sweepstakes.

MARKET IRREGULAR AT OPENING FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The market was irregular at the opening today. With moderate rallies in a number of the industrial favorite, United States Steel sold up a point at 167 1/2; American Can was up 1 1/2 at 114; American and Foreign Power up 1 1/2 at 88.

A flash from the floor at the end of the first ten minutes stated that 171 was bid for U. S. Steel, a gain of 4 1/2 points from Thursday's close.

PERFECT HANDS OF BRIDGE ARE DEALT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 13.—Four perfect hands of bridge were dealt at a party given by the Big Ten Club at Youngstown. The four players and the three witnesses all attest that the cards were shuffled and dealt according to the regular rules of the game.

Howard Sutton, Ohio State University graduate, an engineer of the Penn-Ohio Electric Co., was so amazed when he saw thirteen diamonds in his hand that he laid down his cards. Dr. W. J. McCarthy, a dentist, Sutton's partner, received all the clubs. M. W. Jacobs, a shoe merchant, got all the hearts, while his partner, Paul Dingley, a graduate of the University of Illinois school of engineering, picked all the spades. Dingley laid seven on his spades and was given a perfect score without playing the hand.

KNOWING GOD

Dr. William P. Merrill says, "If you want to know God, there are two ways: private prayer and public worship. Here are two great means of finding God and of living with him in real fellowship: the practice of his presence, the participation in social worship."

"Use these great means. Seek and keep seeking; knock and keep knocking until you find your way into God's home and abide with him there. Each must find his own way into that home."

The question is whether the individual wants to know God badly enough. In the great beyond, we want that He know us so it is wise that we get better acquainted with him here. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

Our age is eager for news, the cry of the newsboy is ever in the air, we snatch the latest papers from the press, but the greatest and most interesting news of the world today is the old yet ever new story that was first told to shepherds at Bethlehem.

V. 8. "And there were shepherds in the same country abiding in the field, and keeping watch over their flocks." The gospel was first preached not in a church but in a pasture field where there were more sheep than men to hear. God sometimes must pass by ecclesiastics and dignitaries. No one has a monopoly on God.

V. 9. "And an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid." Heaven was reflected in the angel which was so unexpectably wonderful as to be described as the glory of the Lord which produced awe.

V. 10. "But the angel said unto them, be not afraid; for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." Sin, such a universal experience, constantly produces fear and the first word of introduction from God is "Be not afraid." Fear vanishes when good tidings are understood.

V. 11. "For there is born to you this day, in the city of David, a Saviour who is Christ the Lord." Every word in this verse carries unusual meaning.—The three big words are Saviour, Christ, Lord; Jesus means Jehovah saved; Christ means anointed as prophet, priest and king; Lord means the infinite and eternal sovereign.

V. 12. "And this is the sign unto you; ye shall find a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger." Great truths carry with them evidences.

Vs. 13, 14. "And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased." Kings and artists never heard such a concert for which there was no admission price. Here we have a glimpse of a little corner of the heavenly choir. If men had created proper conditions socially and nationally, instead of war drums there would be heard today on earth peace. Christianity needs a chance.

V. 15. "And it came to pass when the angels went away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing that is come to pass which the Lord hath made known unto us." The shepherds had their choice to be satisfied with having heard from heaven and do nothing about it or obey the voice and go to Bethlehem to find Christ. It is still a matter of choice; if hearing from heaven would save the world then peace would reign today.

V. 16. "And they came with haste, and found both Mary and Joseph and the babe lying in the manger." God's promises fulfill our hearts desire and are never disappointing.

Vs. 17, 18. "And when they saw it, they made known concerning the saying which was spoken to them about the child and all that heard it wondered at the things which were spoken unto them by the angels." We owe it to others to tell the good news we receive from God. The shepherds were so happy that they were found glorifying and praising God. The angel's song now started Christian music, one of the great means of getting to others God's messages of love.

Home Education

WHAT IS HOME?

A London magazine once asked its readers to answer the question "What is Home?" It received eight hundred replies, and from these, the editor chose as the best, the following seven:

Home—a world of strife shut out, a world of love shut in.

Home—a place where the small are great and the great are small.

Home—the father's kingdom, the mother's world and the children's paradise. Home—the place where we grumble the most and are treated the best.

Home—the center of affection round which our heart's best wishes twine.

Home—the place where our stomach gets three square meals a day and our hearts a thousand.

Home—the only place on earth where the faults and failures of humanity are hidden under the sweet mantle of charity.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. Why was Christ born as a human babe?

2. What does the humanity of Jesus do for us?

3. What may we do that has the same effect as that of the shepherds who went to Bethlehem?

4. Why was the angels' message good news? What makes good news?

5. What gives a song value?

6. How make the angels' song, "On earth peace, good will among men," a reality?

7. How may the glory of God and the peace of men work together?

Clericus says, "We hear divine messages enough, but too often we let them fade into the light of the common day and pass into forgetfulness. Song must be turned into service or it is so much troubled air; worship is a vain thing if it is not translated into service, worthwhile work."

Lesson prayer, "We thank thee, O God, for revealing thyself in human form and making real thy divinity; we praise thee for satisfying our yearning hearts for thee and the satisfaction of soul when we find thee in Jesus Christ."

BOOK REVIEW

THE CHURCH HISTORY by Nazler, The Abingdon Press, presents in a thorough and interesting manner the history of the church from its earliest beginning; also develops the history of Christian institutions and movements up to the present time.

WHAT ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT ARGUMENTS FOR A PROGRAM OF WEEKDAY RELIGIOUS EDUCATION?

The week day church school plan enables a church to secure adequate and suitable time for religious teaching thus removing one of the most serious and common hindrances to educational work of the church. It enables the churches to reach the large number of children and young people not reached by the Sunday School and other agencies of the church. Many communities are reaching all children of school age through week day church school classes. The week day church school also makes possible the church's organ-

This is due in part to the fact that the added time made available by the plan enables a church to provide phases of education often omitted from the church school program. It also encourages higher standards of teaching methods, curriculum materials and supervision.

TOLEDO, Dec. 13.—A one act drama staging a murder trial with liquor law background will be presented in Toledo and throughout the seven counties of the Toledo district, commencing immediately after the holiday season under the auspices of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League.

LEAGUE WILL GIVE PLAY PROPAGANDA

It is said to be an accurate and vivid representation of an actual courtroom occurrence and occupies nearly two hours. The production is already billed for fifteen performances.

The sketch was written by George Hammond, an anti-saloon league attorney of Des Moines. The two leading roles will be taken by Toledoans, H. P. Pichard and Robert Gosline, Jr., son of Judge Robert Gosline.

The remaining twenty-two roles including prisoners, their families and the jurors will be taken from the community in which the play is presented.

MR. FORD AND RELIGION
When asked his reaction to religion, Henry Ford, in a recent interview with Cameron Wilkie of the Christian Herald, said the following:

"Religion is like electricity. I do not understand electricity, but I am deeply interested in it. I want to know all I can about it. I see its power and its results. I see it turn the wheels of industry. I know that it lights up the dark places on the earth. I know that it warms our hearts and that it makes the world better. I see and admit its effectiveness, even though I do not profess to understand it at all.

The Theater

Two British plays have been attracting considerable comment. "Thunder in the Air," which in its London run drew thousands of parents and relatives who had lost loved ones in the war, is now in New York.

Critics are saying that the play is the mere talk of a senile mind, getting nowhere. Shaw is 73. They say the play has a few laughs for the English but none for the Americans. The Theater Guild produces the Shaw plays in New York.

"The Apple Cart" concerns a British monarch, thirty years hence, who saves the people from a plutocracy. Democracy has restored government responsive to the people. And this from the man who for half a century has fought an unceasing battle for Socialism.

"St. Joan," which the English critics say is Shaw's best play, was written when he was nearly 70. "Cannida," probably his best, had no regular production for twenty years. It took Shaw half a century to be recognized in a big way in England.

His mother sees him as the little boy who used to blow his toy trumpet in the garden. The butler sees him as the one lad with whom she played in the orchard.

The minister's wife sees him as her lover for a week. The minister sees him hatedly as the man who took his wife. The butler sees him as the one

Minute Reviews of Plays

FIFTY MILLION FRENCHMEN, with William Gaxton and Genevieve Tobin, at the Lyric: Acclaimed by many as the cleverest and most enjoyable musical comedy of the season. Termed "a musical comedy tour of Paris," it will be on view to visitors to New York for a long time to come.

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH?—at the Vanderbilt: This farce, written ten years ago by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, uses situations of decade ago to bring its laughs. Seems outdated.

THE SILVER SWAN, at the Martin Beck: Latest Viennese operetta lacks lustre of its illustrious predecessors.

Twenty Years '09- Ago -'29

who stole his life savings.

Critics saw Ronnie Vexed, the returned-from-the-dead soldier, as the ghost of an idea fleshed in khaki and paraded rather woodenly across the minds of the audience. That was the weakness of the production—that Ronnie is too physical and too glowing an apparition.

The dialogue also, it is said, is too reminiscent of this life and its conversational tedium and too little suggestive of the gossamer world from which Ronnie dropped in. Despite its dramatic rheumatism, however, the play seems to fascinate its audiences.

The other British play being noticed is George Bernard Shaw's "The Apple Cart," first produced in Warsaw and now in England, and which is still on the other side.

CHAPTER XLVII

"Have you ever seen this bird?" Detective Sears held a picture before Rosalie that he had just taken from the rogues' gallery. She jumped nervously.

"That—that's Sprintry Flynn. Tim O'Hara told me who he was. He saw him coming to the house one night. One night he came with another little dark man he called 'Poppy'."

Rowdy nodded to Sears. "That would be 'Poppy' Keogh. He's a dip. You remember him. He got five years for peddling 'snow' and just got out a few weeks ago."

Sears brought out several pictures and she picked "Poppy" out easily. He went to another file.

"There's a Jane here. Since you know these two birds you might have run up against her."

He held up the picture of a dark woman with sleek hair and eyes that seemed to burn in her face. Rosalie darted a swift scared look at Rowdy. He nodded encouragement.

"It's all right, Rosalie. We can trust Detective Sears."

"Is her name Dell?" Rosalie asked, fearfully.

Sears looked at the notation and grinned.

"Martino, Della. She's Mrs. Martino, Albert Martino's wife."

Rosalie turned whiter.

"A devoted couple," the detective smiled. "That was a love affair if there ever was one. Those two birds stuck together for twenty years in one jail and out of another. She never looked at another man—and I don't believe he looked at another woman—out of business hours."

He stopped and clipped at Rosalie's shoulder.

"So—you know old Dell? Where'd you meet her?"

"She—she came to the store a few times to warn me to be careful and keep my mouth shut—he—he said her name was Dell."

"You never saw her outside the store?"

"No—no," Rosalie denied against her better judgment. "Not outside the store."

Rowdy knew she was the woman in gray who had held Rosalie captive at the airport. The woman who had laughed at her and asked her if she wanted to live. He wished Sears would stop. But he went on for a long time bringing out pictures. The rest Rosalie could not identify.

"Well," he smiled a little later, "that's a pretty good night's work. We got something to work on, anyway. We'll just bring our familiar old girl friend Dell in and see what we shall see."

He sat down beside Rosalie then and looked at her steadily.

"How long have you been mixed up with this gang, sister?"

"I don't know what you mean," Rosalie faltered.

"I mean," he explained carefully, "how long have you been playing with them. You been one of 'em, of course. Or they wouldn't have hid their stuff in your room."

"I have not!" she denied, tearfully. "I didn't know they were stealing things from the store."

"Well, you don't look so dumb. How come you didn't think there was something the matter when Martino sent them suitcases to you and told you he'd knock your block off if you told?"

He stood over her sternly.

USE PASTEURIZED MILK

The Greene County Medical Society is taking this means of calling the attention of the public to the fact that several cases of undulant fever have been reported in this county, traceable to the use of raw milk.

Undulant or Malta fever is a serious, long drawn out, wasting disease, for which no cure or treatment has been found.

As prevention is the only means of combatting this disease, the public is urged to demand and use pasteurized milk exclusively.

Marshall M. Best,
Secretary.

"You KNEW all about it. You wanted pretty clothes and so you started strain them and he caught you and then you helped him, isn't that so?"

"Wait a minute, Sears," Rowdy stopped him then. "That wasn't in the bargain just yet. I told you everything she knows about it, and you can take my word for it. I'm on the level with you."

Sears shrugged skeptically.

"That yara don't hold water, Dow, and you know it don't. My job is to get to the bottom of it."

"So's mine," Rowdy snapped at him then. "Do you think I'm not trying to dope it out, too?"

"I think," Sears lit a cigar, "this good lookin' little skirt has you outdressed just like she has done with everyone else. I think she knows a hell of a lot more than she's tellin'."

Rosalie began to cry. Rowdy was angry, but he knew he should not show it too much. Otherwise Sears would see how determined he was to help Rosalie.

Rowdy heard a boy calling "EX-TRA," and sent for a paper.

"ROSALIE MARCH ROOM LOOT HIDE-OUT."

"Racketeer Shot in Alleyway With Suitcases of Stolen Goods From Boggs and Clarke's Store."

"Seventeen-Year-Old Girl Now Seen as Flapper Racketeer."

It told of the dying confession of Sprintry Flynn, how he had incriminated Rosalie March, and how she was in hiding. The police had said they knew where they could put their hands on her at a moment's notice.

"The Flapper Racketeer!" They had several times throughout the story called her that.

Sears chewed his cigar thoughtfully. Rowdy felt very useless just then. Things were happening a little too fast to suit his particular taste. Rosalie looked around helplessly.

"Well, girlie," Sears spoke so suddenly that she jumped again with nerves. "I'm going to send for our girl friend Della and we'll have a little talk with her. We'll take you downstairs and keep you from the reporters until we get through. I'll get the chief to sit in with us."

Della Martino! She would have to face her. Rosalie begged him wildly:

"No! No! I'm afraid of her—"

"Don't be afraid, Rosalie."

MAYOR BABB CLAIMS XENIA ENTITLED TO LOWER LIGHT RATES

would also be desirable for the question of a new gas ordinance for Xenia to come up at the end of next year. A two-year contract entered into with the Ohio Fuel and Gas Co., which was later absorbed by the Dayton Power and Light Co., expired five months ago.

Commission takes the stand that the questions of a new franchise, new contracts for street lighting, domestic and commercial lighting and a new gas ordinance should be thrashed out with the utility simultaneously.

PERSONNEL CHANGES

Three new members of the commission take office January 1 and not knowing what their attitude will be on the lighting problem, desire to put his successor in an embarrassing position. The new commission will inherit the present problems inasmuch as it must re-open negotiations with the Dayton company next year, but the present commission is attempting to pave the way for a pending fight for rate reductions.

At present negotiations with the Dayton company over the renewal of the street lighting contract are at a standstill. Members of the commission, particularly Mayor Babb, desire a reasonable reduction in present rates for 1930 while the Dayton company is willing to consider a reduction, but only on a five-year contract.

As a result the street lighting ordinance introduced by the company for 1930 was tabled by commission Thursday night and not read for the second time. The present commission will hold one more meeting December 26.

Representatives of the Dayton company were advised that the commission is unanimously in favor of reduced rates but that if it is not possible to obtain them, it would consider granting the company a short term extension of its present contract, not exceeding ninety days. This would make it necessary for the next commission to open early negotiations in 1930.

Commissioner David Cherry, an advocate of a municipal light plant for Xenia, asserted that it might be a good thing for Xenia to wake up the citizens if the present commission refused to renew the street lighting contract unless a satisfactory reduction is obtained and the company exercised an option of shutting off the street lights.

CITES BETTER RATES

Comparing Xenia's street lighting contract with that in effect at Urbana, Commissioner Babb was equipped with information disclosing the city council of Urbana passed an ordinance last August to be charged for street lighting under which the cost is only $818.95 per month for 228 lamps producing 90,000 candle power. Xenia has 225 lamps producing only 50,500 candle power but the cost is $741.25 per month. Urbana, therefore, pays only $77.50 more than Xenia per month despite the fact it has three more lamps and 39,200 more candle power. Urbana's service also includes twenty-nine 1,000 candle power lamps on ornamental standards furnished by the lighting company whereas Xenia has no lamps exceeding 600 candle power.

Council of the city of Kent, O., Mayor Babb also disclosed, passed an ordinance December 2, 1929, effective for five years beginning next January 1, under which the city will pay $905.55 a month for

NOTE PROMISING TO RETURN LOST CHILD REVEALED AS HOAX

Horst Family Given False Hopes For Re- turn Of Child

ORRVILLE, O., Dec. 13.—In a room bedecked with last year's Christmas tree and the toys of a child, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horst waited vainly all night long for the return of their son, four-year-old Melvin Horst, who mysteriously disappeared from the streets here two nights after Christmas, last year.

The little boy's return had been promised in an unsigned note to the editor of a local newspaper. The note demanded $100 and freedom from arrest and this was agreed to by authorities.

However, the note had proved to be a hoax today, a cruel hoax which made the parents hope that their little dimpled-cheeked and blonde-haired boy would be with them again this yuletide and then dashed that hope on the rocks with the coming of daylight.

The parents of the child have kept the Christmas tree and toys which were Melvin's last year. The tree stands brown and barren. Elias and Arthur Arnold—63-year-old father and 18-year-old son—recently stood trial for a second time on child-stealing charges in connection with the lad's disappearance, but they were acquitted.

Melvin vanished from the streets here on the night of December 27, last year. He has not been seen nor heard from since. The case has remained an enigma, unavenged and unsolved by justice.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 13.—Roy Horst, uncle of Melvin Horst, the boy who has been missing from his home in Orrville for nearly a year, returned to Wooster early today after failing to identify a child at the detention home here as Melvin.

A telephone message to Horst from an attendant at the detention home stated that a boy, picked up with a man who said he was the father, in a downtown department store yesterday, was believed to be Melvin.

Horst asserted he was positive the boy here was not his missing nephew, although he bore a close resemblance to Melvin.

ACCUSED SLAYER OF HERMIT ARRAIGNED

WAYNE, W. Va., Dec. 13.—Chancellor Ferguson, 22, who is accused of slaying George Crockett, a hermit in the remote one-mile creek section of Wayne County, will be arraigned here this afternoon on a charge of murder, according to Prosecutor Jess Ham-mack.

Ferguson was caught after a four-day manhunt in the Wayne County hills. He has withstood fifteen hours of continuous questioning by police and maintains he is innocent.

Crockett was found slain in his isolated cottage Sunday. His body had been riddled with birdshot. He was reported to have kept large sums of money about his place.

STORE MANAGER IS BOUND AND ROBBED

DELAWARE, O., Dec. 13.—Earl Bowers, manager of a chain grocery store here, today was recounting his experiences at the hands of a woman bandit and her two male companions yesterday.

The woman entered the store and asked for a sack of apples. Bowers prepared the parcel for her and turned to find himself staring into the muzzle of a revolver. The woman was quickly reinforced by her two male companions.

They bound and gagged Bowers and then robbed the till of $64. Customers later released the grocery manager.

BOMB WRECKS HOME

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.—A bomb explosion early today ripped off the front porch of the home of Benjamin Cohen, supervisor and investigator of the Koshier Meat Department of Swift and Co's plant here. Racketers in a Koshier meat war are believed responsible for the blast. Cohen told police that his life has been threatened on several occasions by enemies who demanded he raise the price of Koshier beef.

BANKER IS DEAD

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.—Funeral services for Ralph A. Harman, 72, retired Cleveland banker, who died here yesterday following an illness of several years, will be held tomorrow, according to completed arrangements announced today.

QUAKE IS FELT

CATANIA, Sicily, Dec. 13.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here at 5:48 a. m. today.

The quake followed eruptions of smoke and cinders from the crater of the famous volcano, Mt. Etna, near here, which were described yesterday as internal disturbances.

POSTPONE PROPOSED FLIGHT TO SOUTH AMERICA; START SUNDAY

SEVILLE, Dec. 13.—Due to prevailing weather conditions, Captain Leon Challe of France and Major Larre-Borges of Uruguay, who are planning a non-stop flight over Europe to South America, announced today they had postponed their departure until Sunday evening.

The fliers were entertained at luncheon by Seville authorities today. Captain Challe, who established a former record for straight-line distance and Major Larre-Borges, hero of a south Atlantic flight, arrived here several weeks ago from Villacoublay Aerodrome, near Paris.

It is extremely doubtful, according to experts, whether a flight from Seville to Montevideo would set a new long distance record, which the airmen wish to do, so they may start from Istres, France. By taking off from Istres, the Franco-Uruguayan team might nose through the record by a few miles.

They are flying a Breguet-Bidon biplane, powered with two 450 horsepower Lorraine motors.

MISSIONARIES ARE REPORTED MISSING FOLLOWING MUTINY

Nothing Heard From Group After Rebel Attack

CANTON, Dec. 13.—Having repulsed the rebels on three fronts, President Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist government today appeared to be on a firmer footing than at any time since the mutiny at Pukow about two weeks ago began the present widespread revolt in China.

While the fighting forces recuperated from their recent heavy encounters in the various battle zones, interest turned today to the fate of several American missionaries who have not been heard from for two weeks.

These missionaries, attached to the Lazarus Catholic Mission at Kanchowsky Kiang province, reported on Nov. 30 that Kanchow was threatened by communist forces, apparently meaning looting rebel bands. No word has been heard from them since. The headquarters of the Lazarus Mission is at Germantown, Pa.

The latest Nationalist victory reported here came from the Hankow district where Nationalists stopped the advance of General Tang Seng-Chi's troops in a clash east of Loyang.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Rebel forces in the Canton district continued to fall back Monday before the onslaughts of the Nationalist defenders of the city, according to dispatches from Hong Kong.

The rebel "Ironclads" were reported to have retreated to Fanyuan, twenty-seven miles from Canton. Casualties on both sides since the beginning of the heavy fighting in the district Monday are now estimated at about 5,000.

ARREST FOUR WOMEN FOR SHOPLIFTING

DAYTON, O., Dec. 13.—"Just write down any pretty name and designate Washington, D. C., as our address as that is the one town we like best of all as it has such a pretty name," four fashionably dressed and comely women told the desk sergeant at local police headquarters where they are being held today on shoplifting charges. They refused to divulge their real names.

Stolen merchandise which was valued at $500 was recovered by police from the quartet's large and expensive automobile.

Their arrest occurred after detectives watched them take articles from the counters of several downtown stores, pass out of the stores and place the goods in their automobile.

It is alleged by local police that the women are notorious shop-lifters.

HAYS AND MILLIKEN OFF CHURCH BOARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, and Carl E. Milliken, general secretary of that organization, today no longer were directors of the Church and Drama Association, of which the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman is president.

They were removed according to George Reid Andrews, executive secretary of the organization, because the board of directors "deemed it not wise to have representatives of the motion picture industry on the board."

EDGE ARRIVES TO TAKE PARIS POST

PARIS, Dec. 13.—Walter E. Edge, New American ambassador to France arrived here today to take up the post left by the late Myron T. Herrick.

The entire staff of the American embassy and about 100 American civilians welcomed him.

Chief of protocol of the French foreign office, Pierre Beco de Fouquieres, presented the compliments of Foreign Minister Briand and with several municipal officials escorted the new ambassador from the train.

HOLD TRUCK DRIVER AND ALCOHOL LOAD

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 13.—A man who gave his name as Mike Donby, Cleveland truck driver, was held in jail here today in default of a $500 fine following his arrest and the seizure of his truck loaded with 850 gallons of alleged alcohol.

The man said he was bringing the shipment from Erie, Pa., to Cleveland for a man whose name he did not know. Donby pleaded guilty when arraigned on charges of transporting liquor. Tests of the confiscated fluid at Painesville Memorial Hospital revealed traces of wood alcohol, it was said.

PRISON OFFICIALS CONTINUE SEARCH FOR MISSING GUNS

Close Confinement En- forced At Auburn After Riots

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 13.—With "iron-handed" firmness, Auburn prison officials continued their search today for eight pistols which, it is believed, convict survivors of the violent jailbreak attempt that took nine lives Wednesday, hid away for future use.

Four pistols were found in the prison, two during the day yesterday and two last night, after prison guards, aided by troopers scoured many out of the way crevices inside the prison. Prison authorities are certain that twelve pistols were used by ringleaders of the convict mutiny in their daring but vain struggle for freedom.

Meanwhile punitive close confinement is rigidly enforced. All meals are being served the convicts in their cells. No exercise periods are granted. These rules will be kept in effect until the missing pistols are found.

Seven convict survivors of the sanguinary battle for freedom are facing first-degree murder indictments for the killing of George A. Durnford, principal keeper of the prison who was slain right at the outset of the outbreak.

Two investigations into the cause of the outbreak, the second to occur here within six months, are in progress. The results of the investigation will be used as evidence in punishing surviving leaders of the jailbreak.

One investigation is being conducted by the department of correction. The other is being made by District Attorney Ben Kenyon of Cayuga County, who expects to ask the grand jury for murder indictments against those responsible for Durnford's death when the jury meets January 6.

Sergeant George H. Sullivan, acting warden of the prison continues in charge. Warden Edgar S. Jennings, who was captured by the convicts and held hostage before being rescued by state troopers, has returned to his quarters in the prison but is still feeling the effects of tear gas he inhaled and a blow he received in the struggle which resulted in his rescue.

Sullivan is determined to make the convicts regret the killing of Durnford whom he termed the bravest, squarest man in the state. He has asserted that they need expect no leniency while he is in charge.

Funeral services for Durnford will be held Saturday afternoon. He was captain of the headquarters company of the 108th regiment, N. Y. National Guard and was a World War veteran. His wife and two children survive him.

REPORT PROFESSOR ISOLATES ELUSIVE GERM OF INFLUENZA

Young Bacteriologist Pre- dicts Vaccine For Disease

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Science today envisioned a cure for the ravages of the dreaded influenza germ with the announcement by Dr. Isidore S. Falk, 30-year-old professor of bacteriology at the University of Chicago, that he has succeeded in discovering and isolating the hitherto elusive bacteria.

Dr. Falk quietly made the announcement in his laboratory last night before a group of fifty students. His momentous discovery climaxes a six year period of research in general experiments for the isolation of the germ.

Making no bold predictions, Dr. Falk stated that his successful research now brings the "hopeful prospect that an antitoxin for influenza" will not be possible.

"I hope that a vaccine prepared from dead microbes of the influenza germ can be absorbed through the mucous membrane of the nose and throat and in this manner effect a cure," he explained.

Unknown until now by medical science, the influenza germ which has taken its toll in thousands of lives is of the pleomorphic streptococcus type, according to Dr. Falk.

"Its appearance," he said "is like a microscopic chain of unmatched beads which a child has strung together."

Dr. Falk used a group of Simian monkeys to aid in the "mobilization" campaign which he and his assistants began one year ago when the influenza epidemic was at its height.

Dr. Falk is an alumnus of Yale University.

LONG AND SHORT OF IT IS DRAW

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The first open forum debate on the burning question of the hour, shall dresses be long or short, has ended in a draw today.

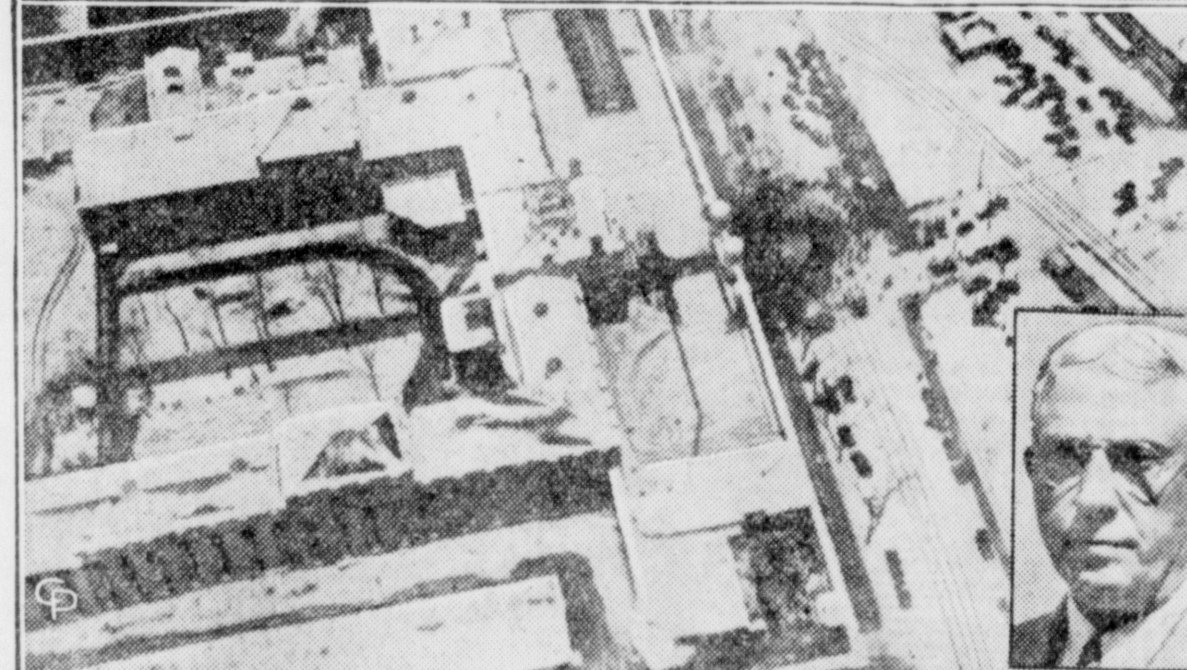

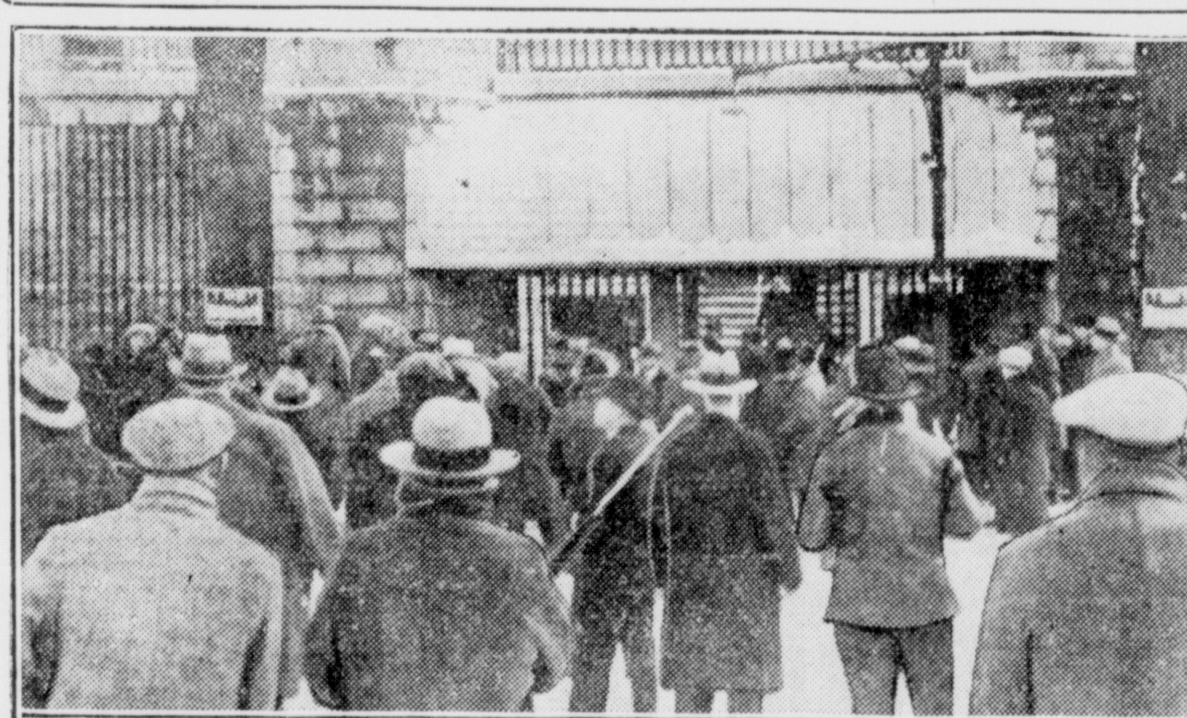

The long and short of the issue was fought out here yesterday before 600 women in a debate sponsored by the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs.

For two hours the battle raged bitterly but courteously, the feature being talks by Gertrude Lawrence, actress, and Rita Weiman, playwright.

"Suggestion," declared Miss Lawrence, clad in the long, clinging mode of the moment, is more effective than revelation.

"We must not become meat tickets for foreign style mongers," countered Miss Weiman.

REORGANIZATION OF PRISON SYSTEM IS BEFORE CONGRESS

President's Plan Is Intro- duced To Both Houses

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The Hoover administration's plan for a sweeping reorganization of the federal prison system was laid before both houses of congress today with pledges of prompt consideration.

Sen. Norris (R) of Nebraska and Rep. Graham (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate and house, have introduced the legislation.

Attorney-General Mitchell is expected to take the lead in the movement for enactment of five separate measures, aided by Sanford Bates, who was chosen superintendent of prisons to effect a reorganization.

The program is designed to end congestion in prisons, condemned by a special house investigating committee; provided employment, re-vamp the parole system and broaden the power of the department of justice to effect emergency changes.

Although the administration's reorganization plan has been in the making for a long time, the riot at Leavenworth and riots at state prisons have added to the determination of the justice department to obtain changes in the law.

The program includes: Building of three new prisons; one west of the Mississippi River, two east of it.

Creation of a single board of parole to replace present system of a board for each institution composed of officers with other duties.

FOURTEEN SOVIET OFFICIALS SLAIN

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Fourteen Soviet officials were executed at Astrakhan after being convicted of profiteering in the sale of caviar and speculating with municipal funds, an exchange telegraph dispatch received from Riga stated today.

Five peasants also were executed at Prekuli, in the Ukraine district after being convicted of concealing grain and aiding others in burning grain supplies in order to keep the price up, the dispatch added.

AUTO CRASH FATAL

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13.—Injuries which she suffered in an automobile accident eleven days ago, today had caused the death of Mrs. Grace Morris, 46. Funeral services will be held Saturday and burial will be made in the Forest Grove Cemetery at Circleville.

JINX DOGS FOOTSTEPS

Friday, The 13th., Brings Bad News To Prisoner Who Expected Freedom.

ELYRIA, O., Dec. 13.—Friday the 13th is exactly what witchcraft says it is to Mike Malone, many weeks an inmate of the county jail here.

Malone, who has been waiting for his trial on charges of pointing firearms, had visions of Christmas freedom when it was arranged yesterday to liberate him on the firearm charge and release him on his own recognizance.

Malone left the courtroom with a dancing step toward the jail to get his things. Meanwhile, the jailer looked up Malone's record and found that he was not only waiting trial for pointing firearms but was also serving out a liquor fine on which $25 was due.

Unable to pay the $25 fine, Malone was returned to his cell where he sits today with a very sad expression.

MAYOR BABB CLAIMS XENIA ENTITLED TO LOWER LIGHT RATES

Commission Holds U p Renewal Of Street Lamp Ordinance

That Xenia is entitled to at least a 20 per cent rate reduction of its present street lighting contract with the Dayton Power and Light Co., which expires December 31, is the conclusion reached by Karl R. Babb, mayor of the city and member of the City Commission.

Data in support of his contention was introduced by Commissioner Babb at the commission meeting Thursday night when an ordinance offered by the Dayton company, providing for a one-year renewal of the existing ten-year street lighting contract with the city came up for its second reading.

The Dayton firm proposed to charge the same rate schedule for 1930 under which the city during the current year paid, $8,895 on the basis of $50 a year for each of ninety-six 100 candle power lamps; $42.50 for each of eighty-four 250 candle power lamps; $52.50 for each of thirty-four 400 candle power lamps, and $60 for each of eleven 600 candle power lamps.

Commissioner Babb said he had made an exhaustive inquiry into the subject and has investigated street lighting rates recently placed in effect for other cities approximately the same size as Xenia. He asserted that in his opinion Xenia's present rates are at least 20 per cent and possibly 23 per cent excessive, that a saving of nearly $2,000 a year should be realized, and that the city would be perfectly justified in fighting for rates that would compare favorably with prices charged for furnishing current for street lighting in other Ohio cities of corresponding size.

SOUGHT LONG CONTRACT

When negotiations were first opened by the Dayton company with a prospective new street lighting contract as their basis, the company sought a ten-year renewal of its contract with no reduction in rates. This proposition left the commission cold. A five-year renewal was then suggested and this offer was also turned down flatly by the commission, which notified the company it would favorably consider a renewal for no longer period than one year.

In view of the fact there is considerable agitation for a municipal-owned lighting plant for Xenia, it is the commission's attitude that all of Xenia's present relations with the Dayton company should expire at the same time at the end of 1930.

A twenty-five year franchise for furnishing current in the Xenia territory, originally granted to the Citizens Light and Power Co., which was subsequently absorbed by the Dayton Power and Light Co., expires in 1930. About a year and a half ago the company was also granted an extension of its contract for domestic and commercial lighting when it voluntarily offered slightly reduced rates and this contract expires in December, 1930. Commission desires to have the city's street lighting contract expire at about the same time.

The point is also made that it

DAYTON, O., Dec. 13.—Search is underway here today for two youthful bandits, who, according to J. P. Gilmore, 55, kidnapped him in his own automobile, robbed him of $460 and his car, afterwards leaving him bound to a stump along a lonely road, near here. Gilmore said he managed to work free of his bonds.

"DADDY" BROWNING FACES $25,000 SUIT

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Edward W. (Daddy) Browning, wealthy realtor, was faced by the prospect of a $25,000 damage suit today in behalf of fourteen-year-old Helen Wice who, it is alleged, was crippled when shoved through a plate glass window at Browning's "Christmas party" here last year.

Counsel for the girl has taken preliminary steps for the suit in supreme court.

RADIO BEAUTY'S CAREER ONE OF ACCOMPLISHMENT IS FOUND

IRMA HOLDS A BEAUTY PRIZE

SHE IS SECOND TO NONE AS AN ORGANIST

BROADCASTS A HALF HOUR EACH DAY FOR THE KIDDIES AND IN THE SMITH FAMILY

SHE IS THE OTHER HALF OF THE PIANO-ORGAN DUOS WITH HOWARD NEUMILLER

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Have a peek at the little lady who ran Olive Shea such a merry race for the throne as the most beautiful girl in radio at the World's Radio Fair this year. The judges just about gave up. They gave Irma second prize, finally.

If anyone is inclined to believe that beauty and brains do not go hand in hand, let him tune in on another station.

Organist Second to None

First, Irma is an organist second to none. She took her bachelor of music degree at the American Conservatory of Music and has specialized in composition, organ, piano, voice and dramatic art.

In addition to her solo work as an organist at her studio, she is heard in the comedy sketch, "The Smith Family." With Everett Mit-daily half hour program for the kiddies.

She is the other half of the piano organ duos with Howard Neumiller, musical director of the station, and gives musical readings. Tie that for versatility! But—wait.

Irma was born in Chicago. One year of her busy life was spent hobnobbing with the Hollywoodians—and playing in the movies. Being five feet five, and having hazel eyes and soft, wavy brown hair, didn't do her any harm in the cinema world.

Perhaps the most interesting thing the little girl, who deserves such a great big hand, has done in her eventful career, is to have directed the Teatro Empire orchestra in South America at the age of 16. Imagine her directing a large group of musicians in a theater with pig tails down her back. Afterward she toured Europe as the leader of a girls' orchestra.

Senn High school here claims her as a graduate. Irma was an organist at a Chicago theater when she became interested in the idea of broadcasting, and the "mike" welcomed her with open arms. She began studying music when eight years old and patiently waited and plunked while the other kids on her street were playing ring-around-a-rosy and making snow men.

Missionary Federation Meets On Thursday

Mr. L. Creamer, Dayton, president of the Dayton district of the Federation of Missionary Societies, was the principal speaker at the first annual meeting of the Missionary Federation of Xenia at the Second United Presbyterian Church, Thursday afternoon.

About one hundred members, their families and friends of the various branches of the I. O. O. F. Lodge gathered at the new I. O. O. F. Hall on W. Main St., Thursday evening and enjoyed a box social.

Following the supper a program was given. Readings were given by Mrs. Grace Brennan, Mrs. Arch Jeffries, Mrs. Fred Snyder and Mr. A. Chilton. Mr. Chilton also gave two solo numbers. A trio consisting of Misses Betty Hoag, Martin and Marjorie Snyder, sang several numbers. Mr. Clyde Ewing of New Burlington played a piano solo number.

Cards and dancing followed the program. It was announced Friday that there would be many social times held at the new hall.

SPELLING BEE WELL ATTENDED THURSDAY.

There was a good attendance at the old fashioned spelling bee and singing school held at Spring Hill School, Thursday evening, which was sponsored by members of Spring Hill P-T. A. Mr. J. J. Stout won the spelling bee.

Mr. M. C. Smith, St. Detroit St., entertained with several fiddling numbers. Mrs. Helen Smith Spahr led in singing and Mr. D. H. Barnes pronounced the words for the spelling.

out of order and prevented my food from digesting properly. I was also a sufferer from kidney and liver trouble, constipation, and then I developed a severe case of neuritis and rheumatism. The pains were almost unbearable.

"I thought my case hopeless as nothing I tried did any good. However, Konjola caused me to quickly change my mind. Why, I could almost feel Konjola when it went to work. Soon my stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels were restored to normal functioning. Then the neuritis and rheumatism was swept away. I actually seem to be a different person. That's my experience with Konjola."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients. 22 of them are the juices of roots and herbs known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the out of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to give new, glorious and lasting health.

SANTA GETS HOT RECEPTION

Boisterous Youngsters Give Saint Nick Vigorous Welcome In Xenia Thursday

MR. Santa Claus, a generous-hearted gentleman who has developed considerable popularity annually at this season of the year, was recovering Friday from battle scars sustained when he was almost mobbed by more than 500 Xenia youngsters here Thursday night.

It was the general consensus Friday that if Mr. Claus experiences as much trouble in distributing his wares Christmas eve as he did disposing of bags of goodies on his visit here Thursday evening that the old gentleman, who is advancing in years, may not be able to make his usual rounds next year.

Mr. Claus was here Thursday evening at the special invitation of the Xenia Retail Merchants Association, taking time from his busy work bench at the North Pole, to pay a brief visit to Greene County youngsters. All boys and girls were invited to visit with him on the streets and to receive a gift from his generous pack.

For some unknown reason, the youngsters obtained the impression that Saint Nick was going to make the Jobe Bros. department store his headquarters and youngsters swarmed around the entrance to the store in such numbers that police had to be summoned to restore order. Store employees were unable to reach the entrance because of the crowd, the sidewalk was blocked completely and sidewalk traffic suspended.

Although police fought their way through the youthful mob to permit employees to enter the store, and although Santa Claus lured the crowd away several times, the store doors had to be kept locked and the store was eventually closed earlier than had been planned.

In the meantime, Santa found it difficult to get very far from his temporary headquarters at The Gazette with a pack load of candy, which he was distributing. The first time his pack was emptied at the Xenia National Bank corner of Main and Detroit Sts., and the kind old man was rather badly treated by the youngsters. The next time with the aid of volunteers, he was in the van of a howling pack that surrounded him at the Main St., Court House entrance so that it was necessary to throw the candy over the heads of the crowd and permit the youngsters to scramble for it, to prevent Santa from being mobbed. A third time

Santa backed into the entrance of the Commercial and Savings Bank while his aides fought off the youngsters and still later he dispensed the last of the candy from the steps of the entrance of the office of Dr. A. B. Kester. Even then Santa had to smuggle himself away to prevent further violence at the hands of his boisterous admirers, whose enthusiasm could neither be restrained by awe for Santa or by fear of the police. In spite of inclement weather, merchants were surprised at the large crowd on hand and sorry they did not equip Santa as a medieval knight in armor.

Stores in the downtown section remained open until 10 o'clock as part of the reception for Santa and the new Christmas trees were lighted for the first time during the celebration.

It was a big evening—for Santa.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

PETER'S AFFIRMATION — Then said Jesus unto twelve, Will ye also go away? Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.—John 6:67, 68, 69.

COOLIDGE FOR THE SENATE

"Calvin Coolidge may go to the senate in 1930. Advices received here from an unimpeachable Washington source are to the effect that high officials close to the administration are trying to induce him to become a candidate.

"They are working in conjunction with prominent Massachusetts leaders and there is reason to believe that, despite all reports to the contrary, Mr. Coolidge might be willing to have his name used providing he could be sure that the field would be cleared for him."—The Boston Transcript.

The country needs in the senate today nothing so much as the hard commonsense and granite firmness with which Mr. Coolidge held the nation true to its course, while he was in the White House. The senate lacks cohesion and a sense of responsibility to the country as a whole. A natural and inevitable consequence of the popular election of irresponsible candidates through direct primaries has been to sacrifice achievement to a malignant and fruitless independency.

While Mr. Coolidge, with a single vote in a body of 96 members, would not enjoy the same opportunity to enforce his judgments as he did in the White House, a few men in the senate like Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Morrow would have a stabilizing effect on its deliberations. They would stand out like a rock in the sea of indecision into which the senate has sunk, affording a point about which the bits of patriotism and statesmanship now floating on that sea might crystallize. The dignity and experience of such men, if they did not shame the intellectual light-weights of the senate into emulation or silence, would at least provide such a striking contrast between mentalities that court the filth of primary campaigning and those that shun it that the country could not fail to note the difference.

The people need Mr. Coolidge in the senate; and if the field is not cleared of factional strife for his candidacy, if he declines to allow his name to be dragged through rough and tumble preliminaries, they will again be forcefully reminded of the price they are paying for the abandonment of the method of choosing senators that the framers of the constitution fitted into our finely balanced governmental mechanism, at the behest of those who regard the senate not as a vital part of that mechanism, but as a forum to the oratory and emoluments of which every Tom, Dick and Harry has an inalienable right to aspire.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

A Washington dispatch states that Congressman Grant M. Hudson, a member of the rivers and harbors committee of the house, will press for early action on the Snell bill, which provides for the United States co-operating with Canada in constructing the St. Lawrence seaway. The importance of this project to Michigan is so great that it is not only appropriate, but mandatory that the representatives of this state in congress shall give it their energetic and unremitting support.

As for Canada, which is as deeply concerned in connecting the Great Lakes with the Atlantic ocean via the St. Lawrence as ourselves, we can only wait for time to prevail over political considerations, as Mr. Hoover reminded congress in his annual message. As for ourselves, we do not have to wait in order to make a legislative gesture that will place our share of the St. Lawrence project on record as a national enterprise to be undertaken as soon as Canada is ready to do its share.

The sponsor of the Snell bill is a New Yorker. The significance of this fact is that the opposition to the St. Lawrence route in New York state is not unanimous, articulate as it becomes at times under the leadership of Congressman Dempsey. The course of wisdom for those states in which opinion favorable to the St. Lawrence route virtually is unanimous would seem to be to meet this divided opposition with an united and aggressive front at this time and from now on until the first Atlantic liner drops anchor in the Great Lakes.

STEALING RIDES

At this season of the year particularly, when the pavements may become slippery at any time and it is difficult to hold motor vehicles to their course or to stop them abruptly, stealing rides on the backs of busses or private cars is dangerous economy. Yet in some cities every day boys are seen indulging in it in our most congested streets, where a skidding car or one with defective brakes might easily crash into the vehicle on which they are riding and crush them to death. Children caught risking their lives in this way should be turned over the parental knee. Older boys should be made to feel the arm of the law, as a protection against the possible consequences of their foolhardiness, as well as to reduce the traffic hazards to which others are exposed by a practice that annoys and unnerves many drivers.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—"Zeke" Colvan, famous stage director for Old Doc Ziegfeld, was at one period of his career an actor—and a good one. In the theater he is the strictest disciplinarian on Broadway. His manner is frozen, his face frigid. Outside the show-shop he is the most affable chap in New York. It must be that back of the proscenium he is acting a role, and acting it so well that he has the reputation of getting a lot of efficient work quickly and quietly done.

UNUSUAL ANNIVERSARY

Evelyn Herbert, successful prima donna soprano of such musicals as "The New Moon" and "My Maryland"—and unique on Broadway as a prima donna in that she really knows music and reproduces it as something real and human—recently celebrated an unusual anniversary. It is one of which the public knows little or nothing about.

Miss Herbert some time ago made her debut in principal roles with the Chicago Opera company. It was there that she created the famous lead of "Mina" in De Koven's one grand opera, "Rip Van Winkle."

After that she lost her voice. She came to New York and got a job in the Casino chorus. When her voice could no longer hold a chorus position she quit the stage and visited friends on the St. Lawrence river.

One day the full realization burst upon her of just what a sorry rattle had played, endowing her with all that talent and then depriving her of her voice; and in a frenzy she threw herself into the river.

A gardener working on the estate near Clayton, the scene of her attempt at suicide, dragged her from the stream. Later she saw that she had been more fool than fish.

That fall she returned to New York. One afternoon she went into a little church and prayed that she'd get her voice back; and it was but a short time later that she recovered it completely and was offered a principal's role on Broadway. Now, at the pinnacle of success, she celebrates quietly, and in a manner unknown to anyone but herself, the annual recurrence of the date of her return from the St. Lawrence.

When making apple or berry pies scatter a tablespoon of minute tapioca over the top before putting on the upper crust. It keeps juice from running out and improves the flavor.

By GROVE PATTERSON

AS TO ADVICE

Few of us are really capable of giving sound advice. Perhaps nobody is. We are able to give advice which appears sound but it may not fit the case at all. There is something in most of us which makes us want to influence others, to tell others how to live their lives, what to do, when to do it. As a matter of fact this is too much of an undertaking for anybody. We are prone to say, for example, when people face struggles and difficulties, that the discipline is good for them. As if we knew what is good for them! One reads from Justin McCarthy these lines: "Adversity is a medicine which people are rather fond of recommending indiscriminately as a panacea for their neighbors. Like other medicines, it only agrees with certain constitutions. There are nerves which it braces, and nerves which it utterly shatters."

CAUTION

Men in public life have sometimes made a lasting name for themselves and have achieved a certain greatness because they were always cautious. They accomplished few out-standing things but they made few mistakes. They thus achieved popularity and a place in the affections of the people. But the really great men of our country and all countries have not been the cautious ones. They have been men who made mistakes, men of adventure, men who took chances, men who were often wrong, but men who finally achieved. Caution is a useful quality. It is far from being a great one.

ARGUMENT

Gibbon, the historian, used to say: "I never make the mistake of arguing with people for whose opinions I have no respect."

Argument is good mental exercise. It may convince no one but at least it keeps the mind in good practice. But Gibbon's plan is good. Why waste time arguing with anyone whose opinions you do not respect?

JOSTLING

Probably the man who finds life the most complicated is the one who clings to the idea that he must never give offense to anybody. He feels that peace is worth the price of convictions. He will differ with nobody for fear of seeming unpleasant. This is a good rule so long as it applies to trivial matters. There are so many things that are simply not worth bickering about, no matter what your opinion. On the other hand, a man who has no convictions about important matters is not really a man at all. Says the old Carlyle, who wasn't afraid of anybody or anybody's opinion:

"No man lives without jostling and being jostled; in all ways he has to elbow himself through the world, giving and receiving offense."

POLICY ON LOANS DESCRIBED AS HELP TO GRAIN MARKETING

By SAMUEL R. McKELVIE, Member Federal Farm Board (Samuel Roy McKelvie was born at Fairfield, Neb., April 15, 1881. He attended the University of Nebraska. From 1902 to 1905 he was with the Bee Publishing company at Omaha. He was editor of the Nebraska Farmer in 1905, later becoming principal owner and president. From 1911 to 1913 he was a member of the Nebraska house of representatives. The next two years he was lieutenant governor of Nebraska. He was governor to his state from 1919 to 1923. Last spring he was appointed to the Federal Farm board by President Hoover. He is a Republican.)

General wheat loan policies of the Federal Farm board are stabilizing the market, and can be credited with preventing a crash in grains comparable to the recent break in stocks.

Wheat and other grain co-operatives are coming into the Farmer National Grain corporation, in groups and as a result increased supplemental loans to co-operatives are being made possible, and a reassuring influence is being felt.

Co-operatives will ultimately control grain, as the board will continue making loans enabling them to feed grain into the market according to the demand for it. The board formulated this policy because it was seen that unless immediate stabilization activities were commenced the grain market would suffer from the declines in stocks threatening at the time.

During the acute situation in wheat from July to October there was a greater spread between cash wheat prices and future prices than has ever before been recorded, so that the grain trade made more money than it ever had before.

As yet all grain co-operatives are not qualified to secure loans from the board, since in order to do so a co-operative must comply with the Copper-Volstead act.

A regional organization for the hard spring wheat area, including Minnesota, the two Dakotas, and Montana is being set up similar to the North Pacific Grain Growers Co-operative association recently organized from the ground up with the assistance of the board.

The difference in the area including Minnesota, the two Dakotas, and Montana, is that these states are already well organized into growers' co-operatives, whereas in the Pacific northwest there are no organizations forming a

The really smart, well-dressed woman is always neat, because she pays the greatest attention to the small details, which attended to make a perfect finish to even the simplest and most unpretentious toilet.

If you want to be really neat, you must never think that certain omissions, and, yes, commissions as well, do not matter. The expression "doesn't matter" should have no place whatever in the well-dressed woman's vocabulary.

Beginning with our extremities, they are so important in these days because they are conspicuous, whether one is wearing a short sports suit, or the new attractive robe de style, which is now almost the universal mode of wear for the evening.

Our grandmothers firmly believed in the old maxim that, "a lady is known by her shoes and her gloves," and I wish the modern woman would remember it occasionally because I believe it to be a useful one. Shoes should follow the correct line of the wearer's foot. If you have a long, thin foot, don't try to wear short, vamped, stumpy shoes just because they happen to be fashionable at the moment.

Shoes should be taken great care of. Always keep a supply of trees, and use them. Clean your shoes with the right shade of cleaning material, and let them pay an occasional visit to the repairers to be overhauled. If you do all this, then you won't have much cause to complain of the length of your shoe bill.

And your stockings are just as important. They must be clean, no visible darns, and most certainly no holes at all. Pay attention to the fit when you are buying and when wearing them. Keep them taut. A constricted stocking is a tragic looking sight.

The modern woman has no excuse for untidy or dirty gloves. There are such varieties of washable ones to be bought, and gloves are no longer worn tight-fitting, so that there is no discomfort in a neatly gloved hand. Gloves should tone with shoes and stockings. Gloves are very important indeed, because a well gloved hand out of doors is generally a pretty hand indoors.

The other essentials to neatness are, well brushed clothes, neat hair, and fresh collars, cuffs, and fronts. Anything untidy or soiled is ruinous to one's general appearance. Naturally you will pay attention to your skin, using a good lotion or cream to give it a nice texture, and of course you will use your powder, rouge and lipstick, the correct way, never using too much, but just enough to bring out the best in your personality.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Japanese delegation will be the most peaceful influence at the naval limitation conference in London next month.

All the diplomats and technical experts in Washington agree on that. Perish the idea that the Americans and British will prove to be suspicious of one another. Still, it will be hard for them to avoid pretty frequent comparisons between their respective war fleets.

Italy is almost openly jealous of France, and to some extent, vice versa.

The tendency on the part of these four powers' representatives will be to fix a limit that at least three of their nations will have to build up to.

Britain, being already the strongest of the four (although on a nominal parity with America) may be satisfied with her present status.

However, even that is not certain. If a race develops between the French and Italians, John Bull will have to amplify his calculations accordingly. The London admiralty never will allow itself to be outclassed in the Mediterranean.

Should England's hand be forced by Paris' fears and Rome's ambitions, Uncle Sam's hand will be forced, in turn, by British necessities.

nucleus round which to create the regional co-operative.

The loans being made on grain by the board are strictly supplemental commodity loans made in addition to the credit that the co-operatives are able to secure from other sources in order to bring the total amount of credit available to co-operatives up to the schedules established by the board.

From the point of view of the board, its action is not looked upon as an inflating influence or one capable of establishing a detrimental monopoly, because the board formulated its plan after a careful consideration of all the economic factors involved in the situation.

"OUT SIDE!"

trouble between Russia and China concerning it—and of their obvious unwillingness to get into a real war concerning it, lest Japan jump into the rumpus and take it away from both of them.

No military man on earth doubts that the Japanese could do it—from either or both of them, put together.

They licked the Russians when they were stronger than they are now and Japan was not so strong. They licked the Chinese without half trying when the Chinese were at least as strong as they are today and not quarreling among themselves, either.

Furthermore, no one questions that the mikado wants Manchuria; also Mongolia, to the west of it—a total area a quarter as big as the United States and a large part of it mighty valuable country in spite of the Gobi desert.

But, obviously, at the present writing, there would be considerable prospects of objections to the grab, from several occidental powers.

Even now the sea of Japan is an almost impossible body of water for any but Japanese shipping to get into against Japanese opposition. On one side of it is the Asiatic mainland; on the other the Japanese archipelago, with nothing but a few narrow, tortuous straits connecting it with the open ocean—straits that are difficult to navigate at the best of times, to say nothing of a lot of submarines to dodge and mines to avoid.

Still, the open ocean could be made unpleasant for Nippon's merchant vessels—if foreign war craft were on the lookout for them.

On the outer side of the Sea of Japan is the chain of Japanese islands—home. On the inner side is Korea (now known as Chosen), as much Japan's as Porto Rico is America's.

A navy necessary to transport troops across?

Why, there is a regular ferry-boat service—as dependable as from Manhattan island to Jersey City—and as safe, too, once the straits are closed with a few tons of high explosives.

Control of the Sea of Japan need worry the mikado about as much as Uncle Sam needs to worry about the safety of Great Lakes shipping.

When he gets ready to take Manchuria, he will take it.

Eventually he will. When he does, he will be as independent of the rest of the world as this country. But this country is not altogether independent in that respect. It could live, even if bottled up at home, but it would be disagreeable.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Meat Stew with Vegetables or Boiled Dinner
Whole Wheat Bread Cabbage Salad
Indian Pudding
Tea
This is a simple and inexpensive menu for a dinner. The beauty of it lies in the fact that it may be prepared early in the day, you may go Christmas shopping, and re-heat the stew and pudding and serve quickly and easily. For the meat stew with vegetables, any of the following combinations may be used.

Important Trifles

If there is a bit of hard cheese left do not throw it away. Put it in the vegetable soup with a few celery seeds, while boiling, for a pleasing flavor.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ACID STOMACH

"Dear Doctor: Many thanks for relieving me of acid stomach. Two doctors tinkered vainly, never asking me how much bread I consumed. Your column opened my eyes; I stopped eating bread, and lo! the acid vanished. When I say bread, I mean more than a half a loaf at a sitting. It was a real malady!"
"MR. F."

I'm glad you had such success. Mr. F. Many others could profit by your example. But you certainly ate more than your share of bread! No wonder you had acid stomach.

The cereal products are delicious and wholesome foods, but when used excessively they unbalance the diet and usually cause excess weight; they give an acid ash, and so tend to give a dietary acidosis and hyper-acidity, as you have demonstrated. But there is no reason why you shouldn't have some bread or other starchy foods, Mr. F. Simply don't make you-know-what of yourself!

We have an article on Balanced Diet which is proving very helpful. See column rules for obtaining this.

"Dear Doctor: I have the terrible habit of walking and also talking, in my sleep. Sometimes I am afraid to go to bed at night for fear I will do something to harm myself. Could you tell me what the cause might be, and what to do to remedy it? I've wondered if it could be my nerves."
MISS C."

Yes, it might be due to your nerves, Miss C., and nerves can be upset by prolonged wrong diet and other hygienic slip-ups, such as over-emotionalism, lack of rest and sleep, etc. But I would have a thorough physical check-up, if I were you, to rule out any organic disturbance, and then, if necessary, visit a qualified psychiatrist to see if there are not some psychic injuries that are resting in your subconscious mind and disturbing you. Meanwhile, it would be a good idea to fasten yourself in some way, perhaps to the mattress, either by a long strip of cloth, or by your night-gown, so that when you do attempt to get up in your sleep, you will be awakened.

"Dear Doctor: How can I learn practical nursing? I am a widow, 50 years old, and would like to take up nursing now."
MRS. B."

I know of no courses that are given in practical nursing, Mrs. B. Practical nurses are usually those who have obtained their experience in nursing their own friends and relatives, with, perhaps, some knowledge gained from association in cases with the trained nurses. You might inquire at any hospital in your city; perhaps they can give you some information.

Goshen, N. Y., Reader: Do you know what you did? (Rhetorical question.) You sent in a list of articles you wanted, marked off on the newspaper lists that I gave a short time ago, and enclosed the necessary coin (38 cents), but you did not enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope nor give your name and address in any way. Write it again, please, referring to this notice and what you did, correct your mistake, and the articles will be sent you.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. If she considers your questions of general interest, they will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each; for the pamphlets on "Reducing and Gaining," "The Kidney and Its Excretions" and the "Hygiene of Women," 10 cents in coin (for each) and fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. (These charges are to cover the cost of printing and handling.) Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I'm just 16, and going steady, but neither he nor I are madly in love. So do you think it necessary to cut out all my other boy friends and not have impromptu dates with them?"
The dates are usually just car riding.
CURIOUS."

Perfectly all right, I should say, to have dates with other boys and let the boy friend have them with other girls. Much better not to get too serious, at your ages.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 28 years old. Have been married about 11 months and think the world of my wife and she seems to love me. We have had a few little quarrels. She went home and said she was no tooming back to me. What shall I do? I can't give her up without a brokenheart."

Write or go to her and ask her to tell you in what way you have failed her. Then try to correct it. She may find, after a short separation, that she needs you as much as you need her.

BABS: You can't do much to attract the boy's attention except by treating him in a very friendly way. Babs. Could you gradually start going with others, as the boy friend seems to bore you? If he asks you why, frankly tell him that you don't care to go with just one for a time, and ask him to allow you the privilege of going with others, suggesting that he wait a while.

It may be that when your friend, whom you like, sees that you are not going "steady" with his friend, he will ask you for a date.

MARY LOU: Don't marry any young man that you don't love. You are young, so just wait a while and I am sure you will meet the right one. Sorry, but I cannot give you the address you ask for.

"Children don't appreciate their parents nowadays," is the cry. Maybe not. Many of them don't. But do parents appreciate their children?

Some do, to be sure. But others expect a great deal more of their youngsters than was expected of them when they were young.

Children have advantages in these modern times that their parents did not have, but they also have disadvantages.

have more interests than we did, and they have to know about many more things.

A little girl writes that she goes to help her mother with the housework, and in the summer vacation she did it all. Since school started, however, her mother does not realize that she hasn't as much time as she did during the summer.

And, another thing, mother doesn't like any of her friends or her brother's friends, and she is forced to meet the boy friend around the corner. He has talked to her father about it.

—the boy friend has—but to no do if you were me," she begs. She says she was no tooming back to me. What shall I do? I can't give her up without a brokenheart."

Well, dear, try to look at the housework from your mother's point of view. I mean, you may think that you are expected to do it all, but maybe you are not doing as much as you think. I can remember when I had the same feeling you have, and as a matter of fact, I was not doing as much as I thought I was.

There is usually a time in every young person's life when they think they are not appreciated by their parents, and their parents, being at the nervous age, think they, too, are abused by their youngsters. Not expecting too much of one another helps through this trying time, and a lot of love and thoughtfulness helps a lot, too.

As to the boy friend, I hope your mother will gradually change her attitude toward your friends and your brother's. It may be just a passing mood with her because she doesn't feel herself, for some reason or other.

VALERIE: There would be no harm in sending the boy a Christmas card, as there is no occasion for it, as you have not seen him since the party. Do as you like about it.

THE ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Consider the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise: Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler,

Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest.—Proverbs, vi, 6-8.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

COUSIN SEXTON BEETLE FLIES UPON THE SCENE

Peter and Biffer started off on another lap of their adventure. They hadn't gone far before they heard a queer humming sound, faint at first, but steadily growing louder.

"What can that be?" wondered Peter, looking about.
"Sounds like Friend Bumble Bee," answered Biffer. "Come to think of it, I don't believe it is, though. Friend Bumble Bee is not quite so noisy. My neck is so stiff I can't look over my shoulder. Turn around my boy and make sure no one is following us."

Peter did as he was told. No one was on their trail. He made sure of that, then above their heads he noticed a dark form flying.

"Biffer, look up. Is that rider of the air our friend or foe?"
Biffer tilted back his head to squint up at the sky and Peter was relieved to hear the little Gun-Beetle hail the flier.

"Hello, Cousin Sexton," shrilled Biffer and waved a claw in greeting. "Were you going somewhere? We are on our way to take dinner with you!"

The flyer balanced himself in mid-air, his wings moving slowly. "What did you say, youngster?" called he. "I can't hear you very well, the wind is too strong. Did my ears deceive me or did you say you were coming to my house to dinner?"

"Yes!" shrilled Biffer.

"Goodness gracious me! I can scarcely believe it!" the flyer surprised, that much was certain. "I can't remember when a Gun-Beetle has dined with my Cousin Sexton. How did it ever happen? I've come down to earth and heard about it!"

Sexton Beetle spread wide his wings and dropped to the ground alighting between Peter and Biffer.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

Friday the 13th is viewed with alarm by a number of Greene County high school basketball teams that have court games scheduled for that night.

This date is sure to be unfortunate for four of the following eight teams: Waynesville plays Xenia Central at the local gym; Caesar Creek plays at Bowling Green; Pittsburg appears at Jamestown and Bath Twp. visits Bellbrook.

Smoky City exports, prompted by the enviable record of Pittsburg's 1929 football eleven, are comparing its strength with that of the famed Panther machine of 1916. In that year Pop Warner was coaching at Pittsburg while Dr. Jock Sutherland, the present head coach, was holding down a guard position.

The last fourteen years Pitt has developed quite a few outstanding teams but this year's aggregation has the best season's record of any Panther outfit since Warner was at the helm.

Turning back the pages of time it is recalled that on the 1916 array were Bob Peck, twice All-American center, Thornhill, Sies and Pat Herron, a really great end. The backfield was composed of Morrow, Hastings, Dehart and McLaren. After graduation seven of the regulars obtained coaching jobs.

Jimmy Dehart is head coach at Duke University, newest member of the Southern Conference, while Peck is still athletic director at Culver Military Academy. "Red" Carlson, 1916 end, turned his efforts to another sport and is credited with building up Pitt's best basketball teams, developing an All-American forward in Charley Hyatt. His old teammate, Dr. Sutherland, has been moulding gridiron stars, including Getto, Chase and Welch of previous All-American ranking, and such All-American eligibles this season as Donchess and Uansa, Montgomery and Peterson.

Fred Pierson, senior tackle on Wilmington College's 1929 football team, was honored the other night at a dinner given by the active Varsity "W" men at the General Denver Hotel when he was voted "most valuable player" on the squad for the recent season.

The football players cast two ballots in making the selection, the first ballot nominating four players, including Paul "Pop" Boyer, well, senior Xenia fullback. Only the names of Pierson and Boxwell appeared on the second and final ballot and Boxie lost out by only one vote. If he had voted for himself he could have won. He voted for Pierson, however.

The honorary title could have been awarded to either player as each man had played two years as a regular. Boxie's play during the last season was outstanding, particularly on defense, while his line plunging was great.

His name will go down in Wilmington College football history as a star of the first magnitude.

It is a comparatively rare thing for a captain to succeed himself in that capacity on a Wilmington College football team but campus sentiment is said to be overwhelmingly in favor of re-electing "Big Bill" Edwards, of Massillon, regarded by many experts as the best college center developed in this section in many years, captain of the "Fighting Lutherans" again for next season. He was captain during the 1929 season and will be a senior next year.

In basketball Gerald Armstrong, left-handed forward hailing from Greenfield, was captain in 1926 and in 1927 at Wittenberg. In football a captain once succeeded himself. He was J. H. Keyser, field goal kicker of 1898 and 1899. He is the son of Joe Keyser, basketball star of 1929 for the Lutherans. Joe is now coaching at Franklin, Mo., and the earlier Joe Keyser is at Richmond, Ind. After coaching in Akron for two years, Armstrong is back as the coach at his own high school, McClain High of Greenfield.

Sport Ritticisms

It seems almost incredible but over a year we've gotten along without a heavyweight champion. This gives rise to the hope that one day we will be able to get along without any heavyweights whatsoever.

The only thing wrong with football is that on those cold November days the spectators can't go to a huddle.

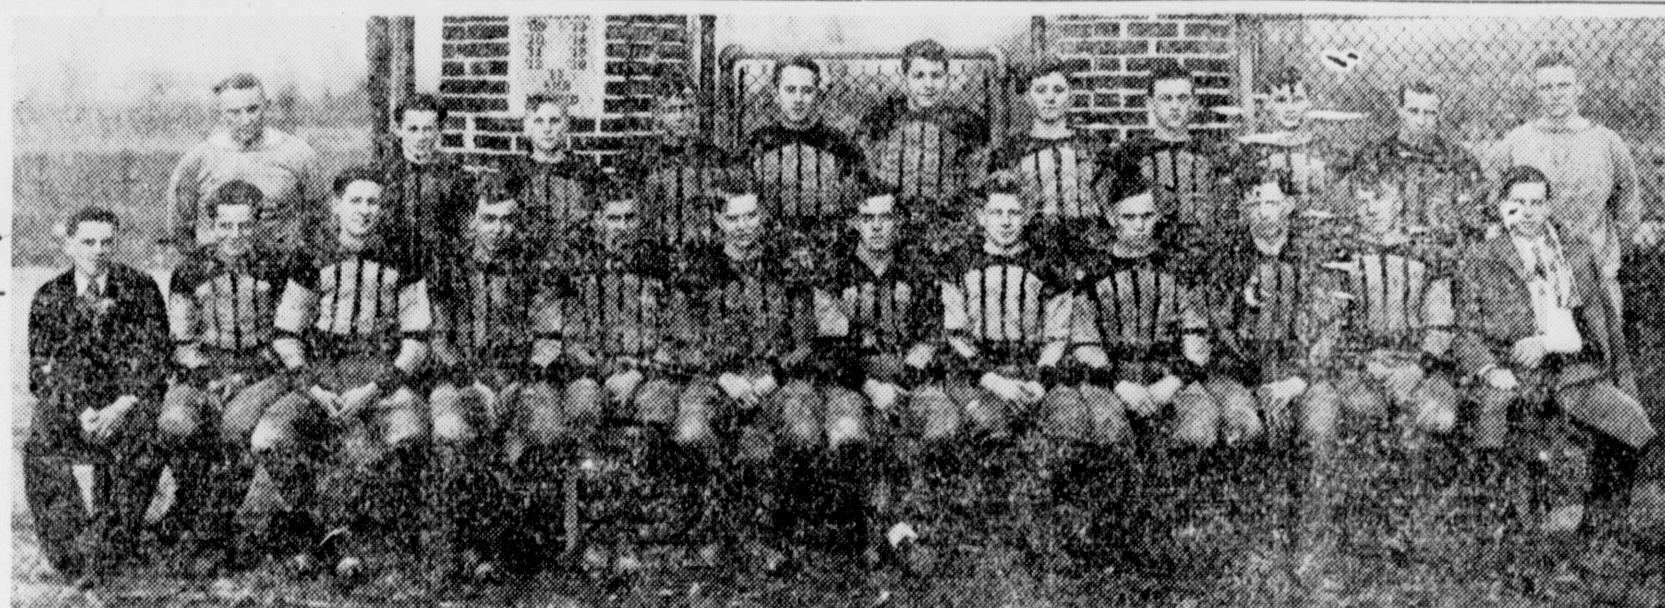

After all, the only thing that hurts in basketball is the net.

Yale's football plans for next season should include a nice, big age for this fellow Ben Tinknor.

Toby Uansa, the Pittsburg under back, hasn't much chance to make the All-American because boys can't spell him.

You can't fool these Dixie grid men. They bet on Ba 2 of T. He looks like big money to em.

CRIPPLED CENTRAL HIGH TEAM SURVIVED BAD SEASON

Crippled by numerous injuries and lacking experienced material, Xenia Central High School's 1929 football machine, shown above, won only one game and lost eight during the recent season. The Bucs had only two letter men available at the start of the season. However, much promising material was uncovered for next year.

Members of the squad are, first row, left to right: Roland Bice, senior manager; David Patton, John Hurley, Harper Billmyre, Robert Hardy, Howard Thompson, Joe Smith, Andrew Frazer, Lester Price, Tim Donovan, Robert Kinsey and Minor Monroe. Second row: H. G. Patterson, assistant coach; Samuel Lloyd, Paul Baldwin, Richard Creamer, Birch Bell, Irvin Hyman, Charles Adair, Edgar Michael, Kenneth Finlay, John Schleppl and Coach Walter "Pinky" Wilson.

Harry Coy, Alpha, arrested Thursday night by Deputy Sheriff George Suggen on a warrant issued out of the court of R. E. Ferguson, Beaver Creek Twp. Coy, according to authorities, assaulted Lester Cyphers, Alpha.

MAJOR LEAGUE MEETING FAILS TO BRING MANY DEVELOPMENTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Their annual pow-wow over, owners and representatives of the two major league baseball clubs, today were homeward bound, no slaver, perhaps, but certainly no wiser.

The joint session of the two leagues under the watchful eye of Commissioner Landis which was expected to result in the settling of several important matters, produced little.

Bowling Scores

The Lang Chevrolet Co. won two out of three games from the Benrus Watch quintet in a Recreation League bowling match while the league-leading Downtown Country Club made a clean sweep of the three-game series with the Flexmode Shoes in a City League match Thursday night. Cox had a series of 574 for LANGS, Doney topped the Benrus team with 558, Wagner was best for the Flexmode Shoes with 546 and Eavey led the Downtowners with 516. Box scores: Lang Chevrolet Co.

ACCIDENT NUMBER

COLUMBUS, Dec. 13.—The Department of Industrial Relations has announced that its aim to reduce industrial accidents caused by faulty scaffolding, by one-half during the coming year through a new program of investigation.

Four inspectors, authorized by the last legislature, will examine scaffolding whenever erected against faulty workmanship. Two of these, Frank Clyde, Cincinnati, and John D. Manoly, Harborton, were named about a month ago. The appointment of George D. Craft, Canton, as the third, has also been announced by Will T. Blake, director of the state department of Industrial Relations. The fourth will be announced later.

"Naming of four scaffold inspectors for the state is the result of the increasing number of accidents from that cause. During 1928, in the building erection industry alone, there were twenty-one fatalities, and 1,158 non-fatal injuries as the result of persons falling from scaffolds, with 158,172 days lost. There were twenty-one injuries from collapsing scaffolds and forty-nine persons injured from objects falling from scaffolds. This does not include the large number of accidents from the same cause in the other twenty-seven different industries of the state, Blake said.

TWO GIVEN FINES SEQUEL TO CRASH

Convicted of a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated, James Duckett, Dayton, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to serve thirty days in the County Jail and his driving rights were revoked for six months by Probate Judge S. C.

charge and fined $50 and costs. The pair was arrested by county authorities as an aftermath of an auto accident on the Dayton Pike near Grange Hill last Friday night. Their car is alleged to have collided with that of Russell Gilbert, W. Second St., Dayton, also occupied by Lester Salm, Dayton. No one was injured, however.

Duckett and Carder had entered not guilty pleas to the charges filed against them.

PAROLE PRISONER BECAUSE OF HEALTH

Hiram Brannum, 39, colored, 918 E. Main St., prisoner in the County Jail, has been paroled by County Commissioners and ordered committed to the hospital at the Dayton Military Home, where he will be treated for tuberculosis.

The parole was authorized when it was discovered he had contracted a contagious disease and his incarceration exposed other inmates to the same infection.

Under terms of the parole Brannum must remain at the Dayton hospital until legally discharged by physicians.

The negro was fined $200 and costs on a conviction for possession.

Brannum is a World War veteran. Another condition of the parole is that he must pay the balance due on the fine and costs in $10 monthly installments.

DOES TO RECOVER PROPERTY; OTHER LOCAL COURT NEWS

Two suits are on file in Common Pleas Court seeking to have set aside the sale of real estate situated in Beaver Creek Twp., involving property sold to John Cyphers February 14, 1919 after the taxes became delinquent. The amount of the delinquent tax was $3.90.

One action filed by Tillie Cyphers, who asserts she formerly owned the land, avers that the tax sale was not in conformity with the law because of alleged failure to describe the real estate definitely and because it was not advertised for sale.

The plaintiff asserts that she is willing to reimburse the defendant for the amount he paid and also interest in return for a transfer of the tax title and also claims that Cyphers had knowledge when he purchased the land of the source of the title and the defects of the sale.

The court is asked to determine the amount due the defendant. The plaintiff asks that Cyphers be required to make an accounting for rents and profits since he obtained title to the property ten years ago.

The same allegations and requests are contained in a separate petition filed by Myrtle M. Cyphers, Oma Laughman, Clarence Cyphers, Harry E. Harner, Emma Miller, Harry Cyphers, Pansie Cyphers, Aletha Threlkeld and Tillie Cyphers against John Cyphers and Pansie Cyphers, 18, a minor.

According to the petition, Jeremiah Cyphers died March 5, 1911 intestate, leaving the plaintiffs and John Cyphers as his heirs. It is set forth the decedent owned the real estate in Beaver Creek Twp., which was sold to John Cyphers eight years later.

Miller and Finney represent the plaintiffs in both suits.

DIVORCE WANTED
Charging that her husband left her last June 15 and that he was guilty of cruelty to her, Georgia Miller has brought suit for divorce from David Austin Miller in Common Pleas Court. They were married September 13, 1926. The couple have no children.

GIVEN DIVORCE
On grounds of extreme cruelty Gladys P. Hancock has been awarded a divorce from Kyle P. Hancock in Common Pleas Court. The plaintiff was awarded custody of their minor child, the husband reserving the right to visit the child at reasonable intervals. A written agreement was reached by the parties on the division of their property but the defendant was ordered to pay $5 a month toward the child's support and also doctor and hospital bills, if any should arise.

DEMPSEY RUSHED INTO TUNNEY BOUT

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.—Jack Dempsey, once the king of maulers, was rushed into his fight with Gene Tunney, because George F. Getz, Chicago, sponsor of the class, was in a hurry to get to Africa on a hunting trip.

Getz revealed this here last night at a banquet of coal retailers.

"Dempsey wanted the fight on the 29th of September, but I was leaving for Africa on the 25th," Getz explained. "So we compromised and had it on the 23rd. Jack wanted it as late in September as possible since his wife had been sick and he wasn't in real top shape."

For the first time in history King Spud has a queen. Miss Elsie Paddock, 18, was named Potato Queen of northern Michigan, at the annual potato show, held at Cadillac. Above, she is holding the loving cup awarded her and a peck of the potatoes that won the show sweepstakes.

MARKET IRREGULAR AT OPENING FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The market was irregular at the opening today. With moderate rallies in a number of the industrial favorites, United States Steel sold up a point at 167 1/2; American Can was up 1 1/2 at 114; American and Foreign Power up 1 1/2 at 88.

A flash from the floor at the end of the first ten minutes stated that 171 was bid for U. S. Steel, a gain of 4 1/2 points from Thursday's close.

POST DIVIDED INTO TEAMS FOR CONTEST

Members of Joseph P. Moody Post, No. 95, American Legion, have been divided into teams for the annual membership drive now in progress, according to O. H. Corwell, chairman of the membership committee, who said each division will attempt to obtain more members than the other, thus engendering a spirit of friendly rivalry.

Dr. H. C. Messenger has been assigned as commanding general of the first division and Paul Turnbull will be the leader of the second division. Blue is the official color of the first division and red is the second division's color.

The membership goal for 1930 is 250. The post had 187 members in 1929 and it is pointed out that there are about 500 eligible service men and women in the city.

Under rules governing the team contest, which closes January 31, 1930, for each member obtained who was a member of the post in 1929 a score of one point will be counted for that team. For each new member or each member not paid up in 1929 a score of two points will be counted and for each member obtained for the Legion women's auxiliary a score of three points will be counted for the team.

All team members will start out as recruits and promotions will be made on the following basis: first member, corporal; second member, sergeant; third member, lieutenant; fourth member, captain; fifth member, major; sixth member, lieutenant colonel; seventh member, colonel; eighth member, brigadier general; and ninth member or more, major general.

The losing team in the contest will be expected to banquet the winners at some date in February to be decided upon later.

Team members are urged to turn in all receipt stubs daily if possible, at the sheriff's office. Receipts are in the hands of all members of either team and are printed on cards of the color of their teams.

Legion officers suggest that a 1930 membership in the Legion post or its auxiliary would make an appropriate Christmas gift and for that reason ex-service men and women are invited to fill out a blank coupon appearing elsewhere in the paper and mail it to the sheriff's office, accompanied by a check.

DISTANT RELATIVE OF BYRD IS SUICIDE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Caroline Van Antwerp Byrd, 65, said to be a distant relative of Com. Richard E. Byrd, Arctic flyer, was dead today, having committed suicide by firing a bullet through her head.

Clad in her best dress she was found by her son, Harry B. Byrd, Jr., real estate operator and former naval officer, in the basement of their home last night.

On a bureau was a note reading: "My dear son, I am in great pain and can endure it no longer. Forgive your mother."

Byrd said his mother has been despondent recently but seemed cheerful when he left for work.

Police said Harry B. Byrd, Sr., the husband and father, had committed suicide some years ago. He had been connected with a local financial institution.

SIMPLICITY BIG FEATURE IN HOME LIGHTING CONTEST HERE

A. V. Miller, Secretary, Xenia Retail Merchants Ass'n., Xenia, Ohio.

Dear Sir:

Kindly enter me in the Christmas Home Lighting Contest. I have read the rules of the contest and agree to them and promise to abide by the decision of the judges.

Simplicity and effect in decoration and illumination of residences are two important factors to be considered by entrants in the Xenia Home Lighting Contest being sponsored here by the Xenia Retail Merchants Association. It is announced.

Judges in other contests have awarded prizes to home owners not so much on the elaborateness of the illuminated display as on the effect which the decorations and light may have on the general surroundings. Fewer lights and decorations sometimes produce a better effect, it is said.

Interest is apparently growing in the contest. Those who wish to

OPERATION OF SLOT MACHINES LEADS TO PENALTIES FOR TWO

Pleading guilty to permitting the operation of gambling devices at their places of business, Mrs. Nora Duesman, proprietress of West Haven Park, Dayton Pike, and Reuben Copenhaver, owner of Woodlawn Inn, Springfield Pike were each fined $50 and costs Thursday by Probate Judge S. C. Wright after county authorities had confiscated slot machines installed in the highway filling stations which they operate.

Hugh Marshall, owner of a filling station on the Dayton Pike near Beaver Creek High School, also cited to appear in court Thursday to answer to a similar charge, entered a not guilty plea and his hearing is assigned for 9 a. m. December 17. His bond was fixed at $200 and he was released.

Filing of charges against the trio marked the resumption by authorities of the campaign inaugurated four months ago to rid the county of slot machines.

In a tour of the county Wednesday authorities confiscated five of the devices and cited three persons to appear in court. C. L. Monnett, believed to have been the owner of Woodlawn Inn, was named in one of the gambling affidavits, but proved he was not the proprietor. His son-in-law, Reuben Copenhaver, assumed entire responsibility for operation of the one slot machine found at the filling station near Yellow Springs. As a result the affidavit against Monnett was dismissed by Judge Wright and a fine was imposed on the son-in-law.

What disposition will be made of the five machines seized has not been determined. Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall requested that the devices be destroyed and Judge Wright has this suggestion under consideration.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT GIVEN CHEMICAL ANALYSIS; HAS AFFINITY FOR GOOD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Science has made a chemical analysis of the "Christmas spirit."

It is the universal solvent sought by the alchemists of old," declared Dr. Howard A. Marple, of Pittsburgh, today in the Journal of the American Chemical Society. It was an article entitled "The Chemistry of Christmas."

The Christmas spirit was characterized as a neutral chemical that builds new compounds and rejuvenates old. It was held a "reversible compound, for Christmas spirit returns to its original state, ready to begin anew."

"It has an affinity for good and attacks the bad," continued the article. "Large or small quantities of it can be handled, depending on the capacity of the mind that dispenses it."

"Let us analyze the chemical and physical properties of Christmas spirit as we do any chemical element or compound. It has, at times, an odor of frankincense and myrrh, the odor of evergreens or of burning tapers. That depends on the place and the heat of reaction. On mixing it, it has a tinkling, joyful sound, full taste of all good things."

"Its energy is unbounding, dividing itself a million times it becomes more powerful, creating in most all it meets a feeling of light-heartedness; in some, a wistful sadness. More often it is like new wine—it refreshes, stimulates, makes happiness and smiles, increasing generosity and good nature."

According to the scientist the world is the laboratory of the Christmas spirit and all those who inhabit the planet may use and enjoy its benefits. Its wave length covers the entire scale of the spectrum. It is a force that cannot be measured in meters or tons, and can be transmitted with the speed of light to extreme corners of the earth, using an ether wave as media.

"Christmas spirit is the universal solvent or alkali sought by the alchemists," concluded Marple. "If it were found," they reasoned, "there would be no vessel strong enough to hold it. Is it not true with the Christmas spirit?"

"Rightly administered, it pervades the innermost recesses of the stoutest hearts and adds new life to drooping, discouraged spirits. Christmas spirit is the elixir of life that materially influences the chemistry of all human life."

FORMER DRY AGENTS FACING JAIL TERM

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13.—Carl Seltzer and Frank Mullins, former state prohibition agents and alleged "hijackers," who were recently released from the Atlanta federal penitentiary after serving almost twenty-one months on a liquor conspiracy charge, will be forced to serve at least a thirty-day term in the Franklin County Jail, according to federal authorities here today.

When the men were sentenced, they were fined $500 each. They allegedly have failed to pay the fine and must serve it out in jail.

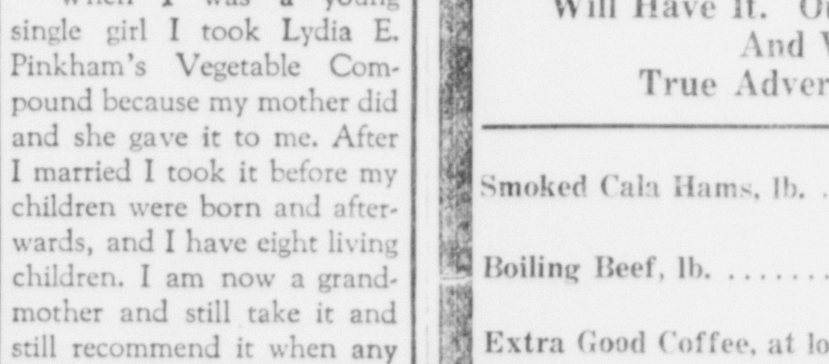

After being confined thirty days, the two can take a pauper's oath and be released.

Mullins and Seltzer attracted statewide attention when they were arrested for allegedly "hijacking" an automobile load of liquor which was reported to have been enroute from Cleveland to Columbus.

They were convicted and sentenced to jail by Federal Judge Benson W. Hough.

PERFECT HANDS OF BRIDGE ARE DEALT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 13.—Four perfect hands of bridge were dealt at a party given by the Big Ten Club at Youngstown. The four players and the three witnesses all attest that the cards were shuffled and dealt according to the regular rules of the game.

Howard Sutton, Ohio State University graduate, an engineer of the Penn-Ohio Electric Co., was so amazed when he saw thirteen diamonds in his hand that he laid down his cards. Dr. W. J. McCarthy, a dentist, Sutton's partner, received all the clubs. M. W. Jacobs, a shoe merchant, got all the hearts, while his partner, Paul Dingley, a graduate of the University of Illinois school of engineering, picked all the spades. Dingley had seven on his spades and was given a perfect score without playing the hand.

KNOWING GOD

Dr. William P. Merrill says, "If you want to know God, there are two ways: private prayer and public worship. Here are two great means of finding God and of living with him in real fellowship; the practice of his presence, the participation in social worship."

"Use these great means. Seek and keep seeking; knock and keep knocking until you find your way into God's home and abide with him there. Each must find his own way into that home."

The question is whether the individual wants to know God badly enough. In the great beyond, we want that He know us so it is wise that we get better acquainted with him here. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

On S.S. Lesson

Our age is eager for news, the cry of the newboy is ever in the air, we snatch the latest papers damp from the press, but the greatest and most interesting news of the world today is the old yet ever new story that was first told to shepherds at Bethlehem.

V. 9. "And there were shepherds in the same country abiding in the field, and keeping watch over their flocks." The gospel was first preached not in a church but in a pasture field where there were more sheep than men to hear. God sometimes must pass by ecclesiastics and dignitaries. No one has a monopoly on God.

V. 10. "And an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were so afraid." Heaven was reflected in the angel which was so unspeakably wonderful as to be described as the glory of the Lord which produced awe.

V. 11. "But the angel said unto them, be not afraid; for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." Sin, such a universal experience, constantly produces fear and the first word of introduction from God is "Be not afraid." Fear vanishes when good tidings are understood.

V. 12. "For there is born to you this day, in the city of David, a Saviour who is Christ the Lord." Every word in this verse carries unusual meaning—The three big words are Saviour, Christ, Lord; Jesus means Jehovah saves; Christ means anointed as prophet, priest and king; Lord means the infinite and eternal sovereign.

V. 13. "And this is the sign unto you; ye shall find a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger." Great truths carry with them evidences.

Vs. 13, 14. "And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased." Kings and artists never heard such a concert for which there was no admission price. Here we have a glimpse of a little corner of the heavenly choir. If men had created proper conditions socially and nationally instead of war drums there would be heard today on earth peace. Christianity needs a chance.

V. 15. "And it came to pass when the angels went away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing that is come to pass which the Lord hath made known unto us." The shepherds had their choice to be satisfied with having heard from heaven and do nothing about it or obey the voice and go to Bethlehem to find Christ. It is still a matter of choice; if hearing from heaven would save the world then peace would reign today.

Vs. 17, 18. "And when they saw it, they made known concerning the saying which was spoken to them about the child and all that heard it wondered at the things which were spoken unto them by the angels." We owe it to others to tell the good news we receive from God. The shepherds were so happy that they were found glorifying and praising God. The angels' song now started Christian music, one of the great means of getting to others God's messages of love.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. Why was Christ born as a human babe?
  2. What does the humanity of Jesus do for us?
  3. What may we do that has the same effect as that of the shepherds who went to Bethlehem?
  4. Why was the angels' message good news? What makes good news?
  5. What gives a song value?
  6. How make the angels' song, "On earth peace, good will among men," a reality?
  7. How may the glory of God and the peace of men work together?
- Clericus says, "We hear divine messages enough, but too often we let them fade into the light of the common day and pass into forgetfulness. Song must be turned into service or it is so much troubled air; worship is a vain thing if it is not translated into service, worthwhile work."
- Lesson prayer: "We thank thee, O God, for revealing thyself in human form and making real thy divinity; we praise thee for satisfying our yearning hearts for thee and the satisfaction of soul when we find thee in Jesus Christ."

BOOK REVIEW

THE CHURCH HISTORY by Nagler, The Abingdon Press, presents in a thorough and interesting manner the history of the church from its earliest beginning; also develops the history of Christian institutions and movements up to the present time.

Home Education

WHAT IS HOME?

A London magazine once asked its readers to answer the question "What is Home?" It received eight hundred replies, and from these, the editor chose as the best, the following seven:

Home—a world of strife shut out, a world of love shut in.

Home—a place where the small are great and the great are small.

Home—the father's kingdom, the mother's world and the children's paradise. Home—the place where we grumble the most and are treated the best.

Home—the center of affection round which our heart's best wishes twine.

Home—the place where our stomach gets three square meals a day and our hearts a thousand.

Home—the only place on earth where the faults and failures of humanity are hidden under the sweet mantle of charity.

D. Carl Yoder.

WHAT ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT ARGUMENTS FOR A PROGRAM OF WEEKDAY RELIGIOUS EDUCATION?

The week day church school plan enables a church to secure adequate and suitable time for religious teaching thus removing one of the most serious and common hindrances to educational work of the church. It enables the churches to reach the large number of children and young people not reached by the Sunday School and other agencies of the church. Many communities are reaching a large number of children of school age through week day church school classes. The week day church school also makes possible the church's organization.

izing a more efficient program of education than is attainable otherwise. This is due in part to the fact that the added time made available by the plan enables a church to provide phases of education often omitted from the church school program. It also encourages higher standards of teaching methods, curriculum materials and supervision.

MR. FORD AND RELIGION

When asked his reaction to religion, Henry Ford, in a recent interview with Cameron Wikie of the Christian Herald, said the following:

"Religion is like electricity. I do not understand electricity, but I am deeply interested in it. I want to know all I can about it. I see its power and its results. I see it turn the wheels of industry. I know that it lights up the dark places on the earth. I know that it warms our hearts and that it makes the world better. I see and admit its effectiveness, even though I do not profess to understand it at all."

"You can take the sermon on religion touches upon the future, regards the past but its main concern is always with today."

LEAGUE WILL GIVE PLAY PROPAGANDA

TOLEDO, Dec. 13.—A one act drama staging a murder trial with liquor law background will be presented in Toledo and throughout the seven counties of the Toledo district, commencing immediately after the holiday season under the auspices of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League.

It is said to be an accurate and vivid representation of an actual courtroom occurrence and occupies nearly two hours. The production is already billed for fifteen performances.

The sketch was written by George Hammond, an anti-saloon league attorney of Des Moines.

The two leading roles will be taken by Toledoan, H. P. Pichard and Robert Gosline, Jr., son of Judge Robert Gosline. The remaining twenty-two roles including prisoners, their families and the jurors will be taken from the community in which the play is presented.

WILL HEAR COOPER APPEAL JANUARY 7

Appeal of Gilbert Cooper, 49, Cedarville, laborer, convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in Ohio State Penitentiary in connection with the slaying of Caleb Hitchcock, Cedarville, in November, 1928, will be heard by the Ohio Supreme Court January 7, according to Attorney Frank L. Johnson, defense counsel. The supreme court recently granted a review of the case. A jury found him guilty of first degree murder but recommended mercy. His conviction was sustained by the Greene County Appellate Court.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Theater

Two British plays have been attracting considerable comment. "Thunder in the Air," which in its London run drew thousands of parents and relatives who had lost loved ones in the war, is now in New York.

Dipping into what lies behind the mere talk of a senile mind, getting nowhere. Shaw is 73. They say the play has a few laughs for the English but none for the Americans. The Theater Guild produces the Shaw plays in New York.

"The Apple Cart" concerns a British monarch, thirty years hence, who saves the people from a plutocracy. Democracy has restored government responsive to the people. And this from the man who for half a century has fought an unceasing battle for Socialism.

"St. Joan," which the English critics say is Shaw's best play, was written when he was nearly 70. "Cannida," probably his best, had no regular production for twenty-two years. It took Shaw half a century to be recognized in a big way in England.

His mother sees him as the little boy who used to blow his toy trumpet in the garden.

The butler sees him as the one lad with whom she played in the orchard.

The minister's wife sees him as her lover for a week.

The minister sees him hatefully as the man who took his wife.

The butler sees him as the one

Minute Reviews of Plays

FIFTY MILLION FRENCHMEN, with William Gaxton and Genevieve Tobin, at the Lyric. Acclaimed by many as the cleverest and most enjoyable musical comedy of the season. Termed "a musical comedy tour of Paris," it will be on view to visitors to New York for a long time to come.

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH? at the Vanderbilt. This farce, written ten years ago by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, uses situations of decade ago to bring its laughs. Seems outdated.

THE SILVER SWAN, at the Martin Beck. Latest Viennese operetta lacks lustre of its illustrious predecessors.

Twenty Years '09- Ago -'29

Critics saw Ronnie Vexted, the returned-from-the-dead soldier, as the ghost of an idea fleshed in khaki and paraded rather woodenly across the minds of the audience. That was the weakness of the production—that Ronnie is too physical and too glowing an apparition.

The dialogue also, it is said, is too reminiscent of this life and its conversational tedium and too little suggestive of the gossamer world from which Ronnie dropped in. Despite its dramatic rheumatism, however, the play seems to fascinate its audiences.

Greene County farmers plan to resist any attempt to assess farm land at its actual value during the coming quadrennial appraisal, providing other real estate is assessed at less than the actual value.

The high school boys turned out in full force to enjoy the first skating of the year. The river was the popular rendezvous.

Mr. George Baldner, who has been employed by a construction firm at Flat Rock, Neb., has arrived home to spend the winter.

Mr. Mel Barrows was a business visitor in Cincinnati. A deal was arranged by which Henry L. Binder becomes the sole owner of the Orpheum Theatre, which was conducted jointly by himself and Elmer Thomas.

CHAPTER XLV

"Have you ever seen this bird?" Detective Sears held a picture before Rosalie that he had just taken from the rogues' gallery.

She jumped nervously.

"That—that's Spritly Flynn. Tim O'Hara told me who he was. He saw him coming to the house one night. One night he came with another little dark man he called 'Poppy'."

Rowdy nodded to Sears.

"That would be 'Poppy' Keogh. He's a dip. You remember him. He got five years for peddling 'snow' and just got out a few weeks ago."

Sears brought out several pictures and she picked "Poppy" out easily. He went to another file.

"There's a Jane here. Since you know these two birds you might have run up against her."

He held up the picture of a dark woman with sleek hair and eyes that seemed to burn in her face. Rosalie darted a swift scared look at Rowdy. He nodded encouragement.

"It's all right, Rosalie. We can trust Detective Sears."

"Is her name Dell?" Rosalie asked, fearfully.

Sears looked at the notation and grinned.

"Martino, Della. She's Mrs. Martino, Albert Martino's wife."

Rosalie turned whiter.

"A devoted couple," the detective smiled. "That was a love affair if there ever was one. Those two birds stuck together for twenty years in one jail and out of another. She never looked at another man—and I don't believe he looked at another woman—out of business hours."

He stopped and clipped at Rosalie's shoulder.

"So—you know old Dell? Where'd you meet her?"

"She—she came to the store a few times to warn me to be careful and keep my mouth shut—he—he said her name was Dell."

"You never saw her outside the store?"

"No—no," Rosalie denied against her better judgment. "Not outside the store."

Rowdy knew she was the woman in gray who had held Rosalie captive at the airport. The woman who had laughed at her and asked her if she wanted to live. He wished Sears would stop. But he went on for a long time bringing out pictures. The rest Rosalie could not identify.

"Well," he smiled a little later, "that's a pretty good night's work. We got something to work on, anyway. We'll bring our familiar old girl friend Dell in and see what we shall see."

He sat down beside Rosalie then and looked at her steadily.

"How long have you been mixed up with this gang, sister?"

"I don't know what you mean," Rosalie faltered.

"I mean," he explained carefully, "how long have you been playin' with them. You been one of 'em, of course. Or they wouldn't have hid their stuff in your room."

"I have not!" she denied, tearfully. "I didn't know they were stealing things from the store."

"Well, you don't look so dumb. How come you didn't think there was something the matter when Martino sent them suitcases to you and told you he'd knock your block off if you told?"

He stood over her sternly.

USE PASTEURIZED MILK

The Greene County Medical Society is taking this means of calling the attention of the public to the fact that several cases of undulant fever have been reported in this county, traceable to the use of raw milk.

Undulant or Malta fever is a serious, long drawn out, wasting disease, for which no cure or treatment has been found.

As prevention is the only means of combatting this disease, the public is urged to demand and use pasteurized milk exclusively.

Rowdy patted her on the back, "we won't let her hurt you."

Behind Sears' back he sent her a warning look to be careful what she said. He did not believe Della Martino would reveal her part in the night at the airport. She did not yearn for the electric chair quite that badly—surely.

MAYOR BABB CLAIMS XENIA ENTITLED TO LOWER LIGHT RATES

would also be desirable for the question of a new gas ordinance for Xenia to come up at the end of next year. A two-year contract entered into with the Ohio Fuel and Gas Co., which was later absorbed by the Dayton Power and Light Co., expired five months ago.

Commission takes the stand that the questions of a new franchise, new contracts for street lighting, domestic and commercial lighting and a new gas ordinance should be thrashed out with the utility simultaneously.

PERSONNEL CHANGES

Three new members of the commission take office January 1 and not knowing what their attitude will be on the lighting problem, desire to put their successor in an embarrassing position. The new commission will inherit the present problems inasmuch as it must re-open negotiations with the Dayton company next year, but the present commission is attempting to pave the way for a pending fight for rate reductions.

At present negotiations with the Dayton company over the renewal of the street lighting contract are at a standstill. Members of the commission, particularly Mayor Babb, desire a reasonable reduction in present rates for 1930 while the Dayton company is willing to consider a reduction, but only on a five-year contract.

As a result the street lighting ordinance introduced by the company for 1930 was tabled by commission Thursday night and not read for the second time. The present commission will hold one more meeting December 26.

Representatives of the Dayton company were advised that the commission is unanimously in favor of reduced rates but that it is not possible to obtain them, it would consider granting the company a short term extension of its present contract, not exceeding ninety days. This would make it necessary for the next commission to open negotiations in 1930.

Commissioner David Cherry, an advocate of a municipal light plant for Xenia, asserted that it might be a good thing for Xenia to wake up the citizens if the present commission refused to renew the street lighting contract unless a satisfactory reduction is obtained and the company exercised an option of shutting off the street lights.

CITES BETTER RATES

Comparing Xenia's street lighting contract with that in effect at Urbana, Commissioner Babb was equipped with information disclosing the city council of Urbana passed an ordinance last August to be charged for street lighting under which the cost is only $818.35 per month for 228 lamps producing 90,000 candle power. Xenia has 225 lamps producing only 50,800 candle power but the cost is $741.25 per month. Urbana, therefore, pays only $77.50 more than Xenia per month despite the fact it has three more lamps and 39,200 more candle power. Urbana's service also includes twenty-nine 1,000 candle power lamps on ornamental standards furnished by the lighting company whereas Xenia has no lamps exceeding 600 candle power.

Council of the city of Kent, O., Mayor Babb also disclosed, passed an ordinance December 2, 1929, effective for five years beginning next January 1, under which the city will pay $905.55 a month for
